A Shrine of Memories and Friendships

Foreword

Reluctant to leave the school and the friends we love so well, we have attempted in this annual to record the friendships, interests, and activities of our high school life and to carry the informal spirit of youth into pictures and composition. Our power to commemorate extends only to events and persons; the rest will remain solely in our memories.

Dedication

She smiled; our hearts were warmed. She spoke; her kindly advice and loyal friendship lifted us from failure and despair to success and hope. To our class adviser, Mrs. Amanda Johnson, we dedicate the Cehisean of 1937.

Mrs. Amanda Johnson

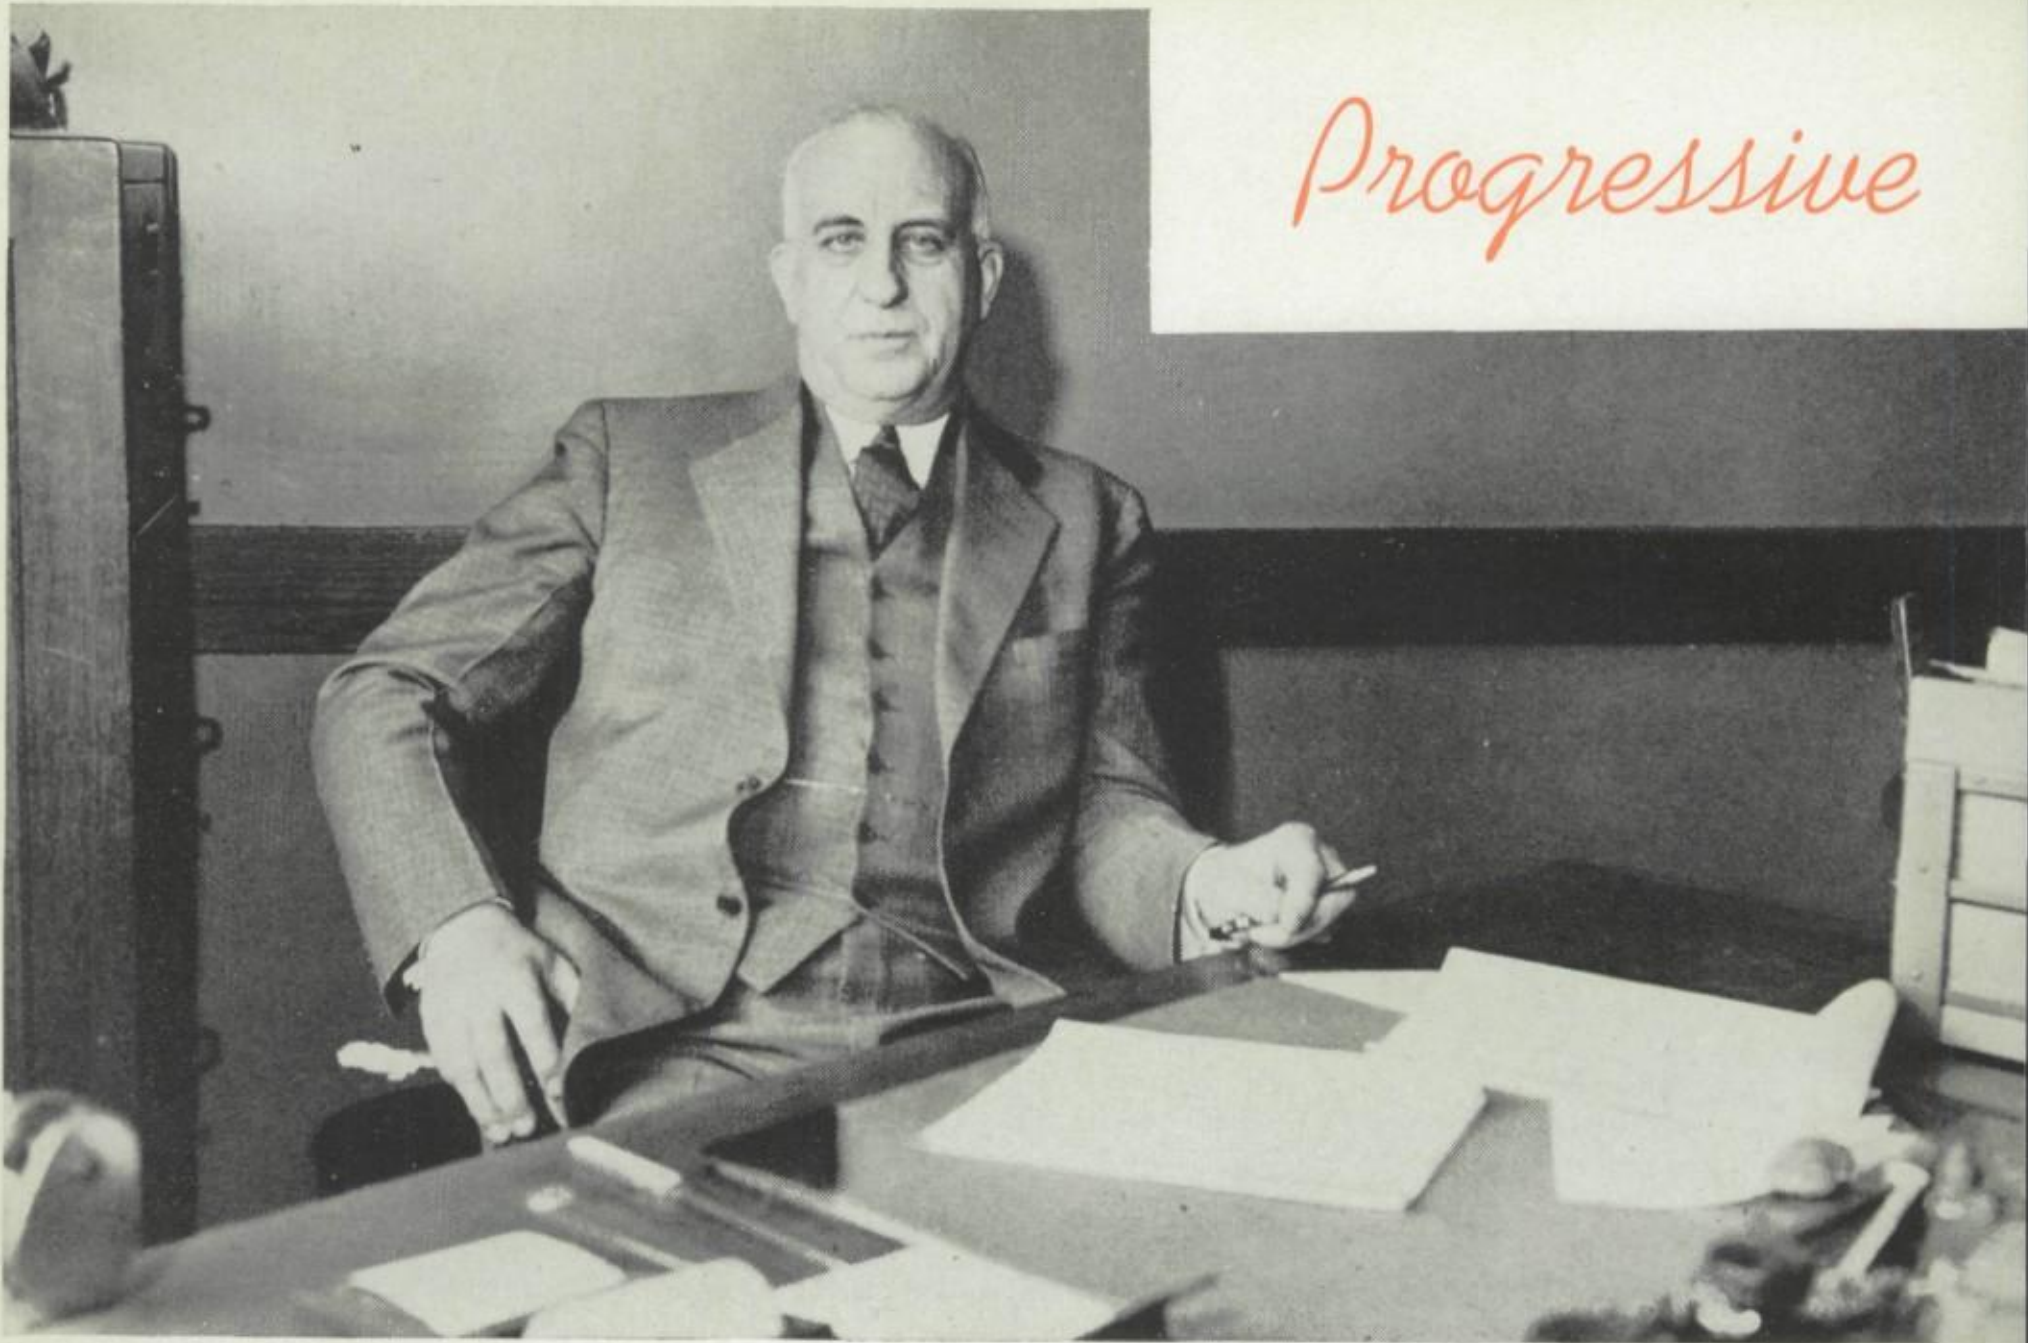

The first of three natural divisions into which the activities of our school life fall is that of the classroom and class organization. Daily contacts, class elections, the J. S., Senior Day, all are a part of our treasured memories of high school. Underlying all are traditions and ideals that bind those who have gone to Central.

Classes

Mr. James E. Marshall, Principal, Central High School

The compilation and editing of material for a school annual is no light task. It calls for intense interest and a combination of abilities, beyond the average, of all who have taken part in the project. It would be interesting to have a record of all the hours put in, the distances traveled by the different members of the staff. Most of this work was done after hours, and on Saturdays and holidays by pupils who were carrying their full load of regular school work.

The finished product is the resultant of latent capacities aroused by strong stimuli; and although the stimuli do not come directly from the class room, yet, it seems to us, that the whole process of the publication of the "Cehisean" is highly educational for its sponsors. This is one reason for having an annual.

Another, and perhaps a more appealing reason for an annual, is the pleasure it gives to all of us. When during the war the annual, as such, was not issued, much of the joy of the year and of graduation was lost, and the continuity of the record in story and pictures was broken. This volume is a worthy member of the succession to take its place in the hearts and archives of Central's constituency.

Executives

Mr. Albert G. Meier, Assistant Principal, Central High School

During Easter vacation, on a stormy, wintry day, I happened to be in our school building. The rooms and halls were, of course, deserted, but following the sound of distant voices I came to a large room, used temporarily as "Cehisean" headquarters, and found there a group of teachers and students, the advisers and some of the staff, hard at work assembling material for the new annual. The atmosphere seemed like that of a party, full of good cheer and enjoyment, not at all like that of a group of people drudging away at a project that had to be finished by a certain time. Notwithstanding the cheerful atmosphere, the work was going forward in a thoroughly purposeful and well integrated manner, as might be the case in any well managed commercial establishment.

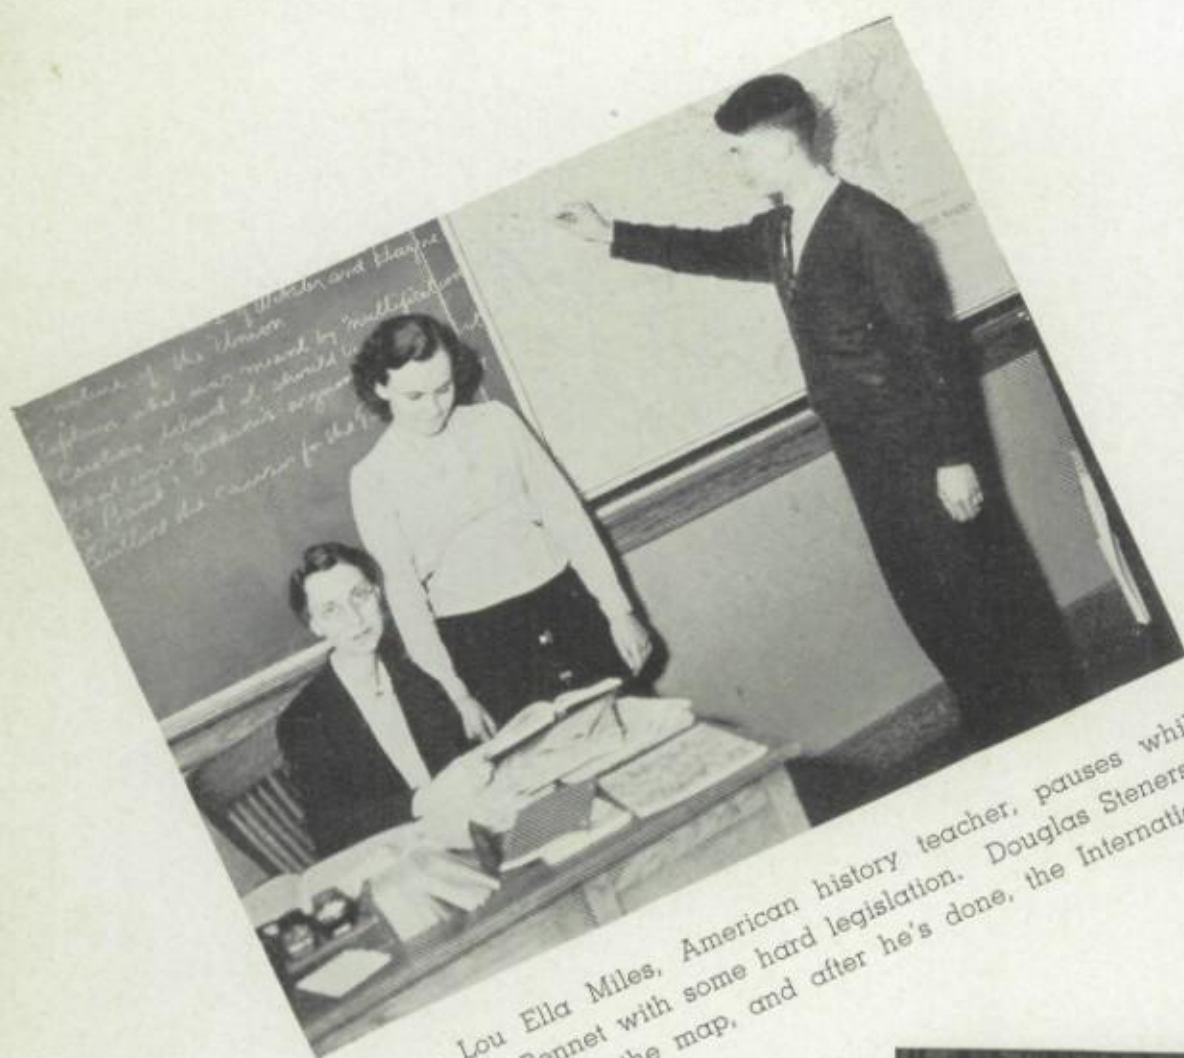

I could not help being impressed by this instance, just one of innumerable examples of Central's student body at work. Many people still imagine a high school to be just a place where lessons learned from books must be recited. They do not realize that while the curriculum proper is richer than ever before in subject matter, many opportunities for participating in the activities of adult life have been added. These pages will furnish manifold evidence of this.

"Can democracy be preserved and made to function?" is a question which is agitating all thoughtful people today. Perhaps it can, if all young people in high schools, in addition to theoretical learning, will work together on the countless projects of the life of their school as a community.

Albert G. Meier

Faculty and Classroom

Miss Lou Ella Miles, American history teacher, pauses while helping Alice Bennet with some hard legislation. Douglas Stenerson waits for help with the map, and after he's done, the International Club will want Miss Miles.

Charles Karkalitz cramming hard for an exam.

Is it the cultivation of plants, our foreign policy, or the problems of the national government that Miss Margaret McFetridge likes the most? She is an authority on current events and civic problems, but in this picture her plants take the spotlight, and they make her room one of the most cheerful in the school.

Miss Marjorie Dornberg took over Miss Helen Austin's job for this spring. She teaches expression, acts as adviser for the Stage Force and Dramatic club, and directs the assemblies.

Miss Florence Baber and Miss Daphne Schaul are deep in conversation about the latest Latin club production.

Presenting a varied and complete curriculum to 2800 students, the faculty of Central High School, numbering nearly ninety instructors, has achieved a reputation for careful, effective, and advanced methods of teaching.

History, the written record of man's doings from early days to the present time, is offered at Central under the classifications world, modern, American, English, economics, and civics. Requirements for graduation in Minnesota make the study of American history and civics compulsory, and these subjects, as taught under the history department, are among the most popular in the school.

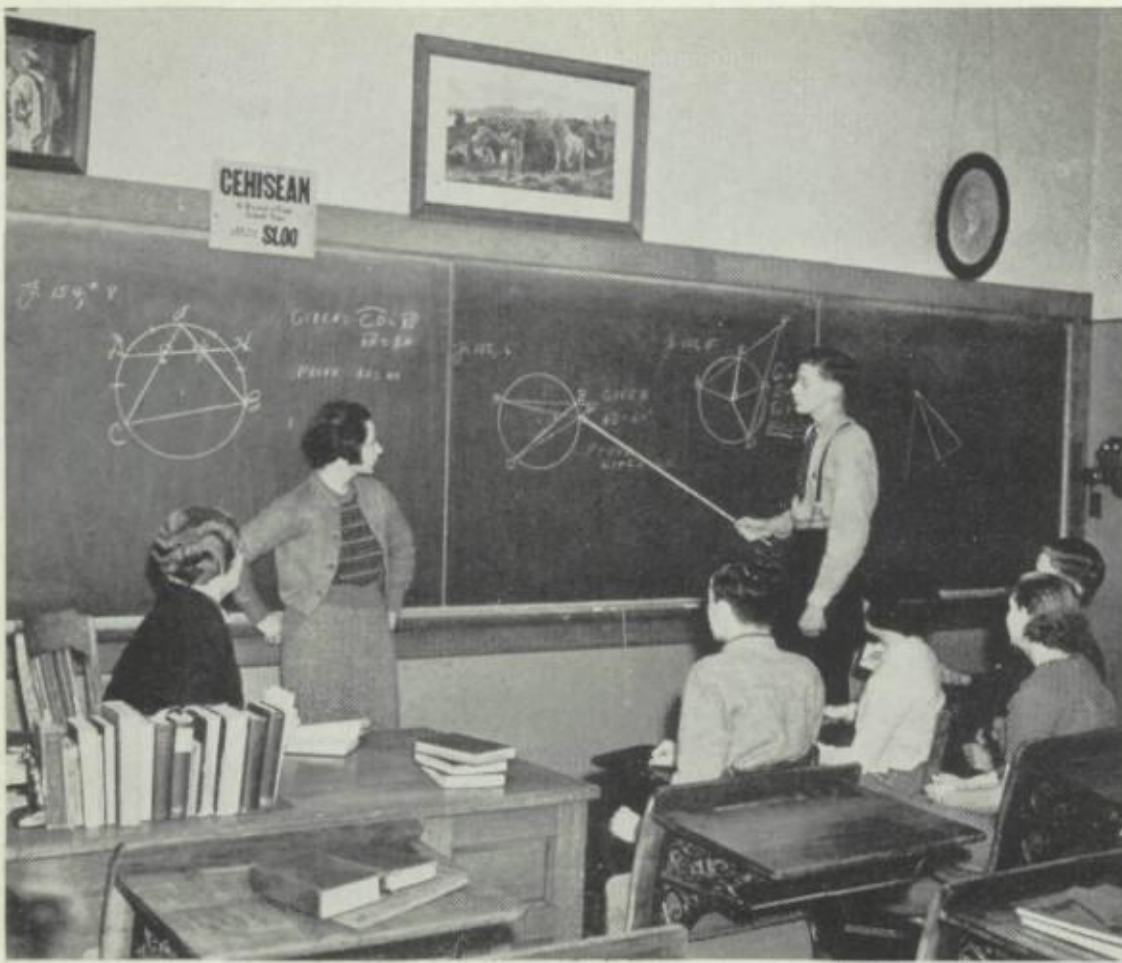

Latin, French, German, and Spanish make up the foreign language department. In addition to the mechanics of these languages, an attempt is made to acquaint the students with the customs and peoples of the various countries. Carrying classroom studies into extra-curricular activities, language clubs have been formed which make the foreign tongues considerably more interesting.

Regie Borden

Holding on to the end of the stick that keeps the band in unison, Mr. Franklyn L. Blume starts the day in the balcony of the girls' gym trying to keep the school band playing the same key. Teaching mathematics takes up the rest of his day.

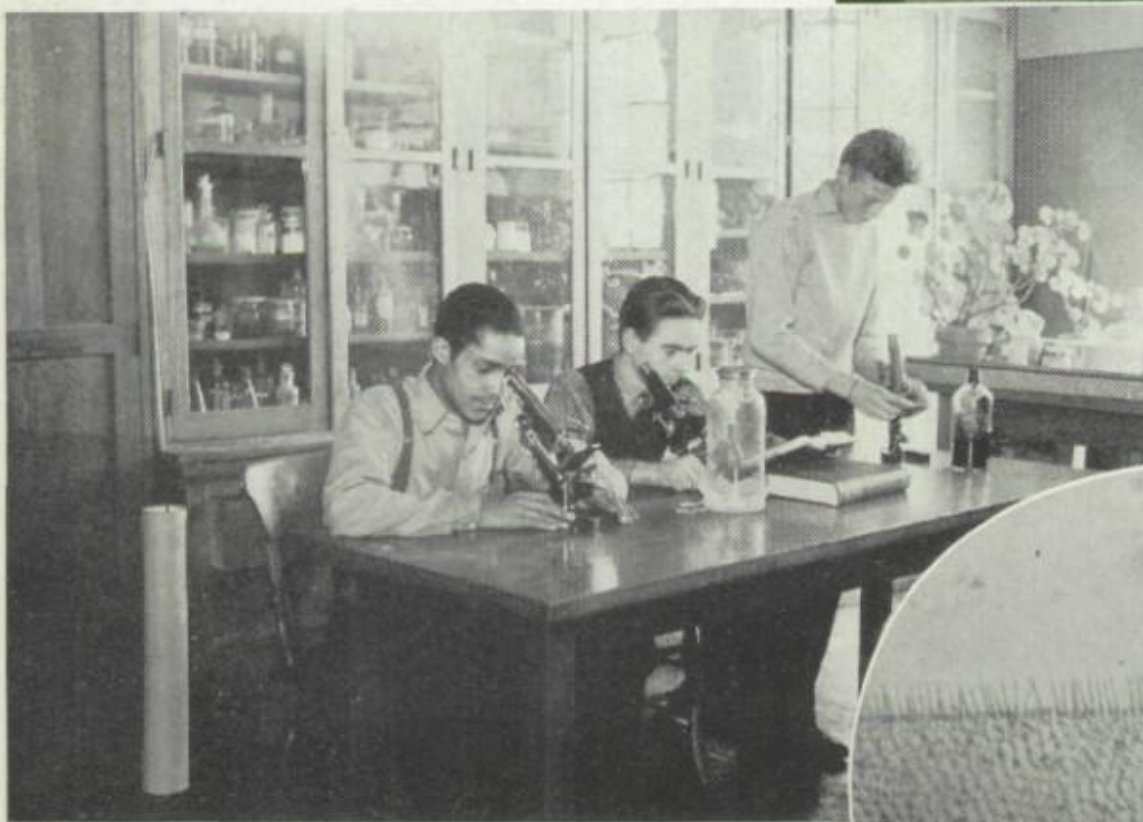

This is no artist's dilemma, just Susan Peterson and Helen Gorman showing Ken Wujek how funny he looks in a bowler. All three were indispensable on the production of the "Cehisean."

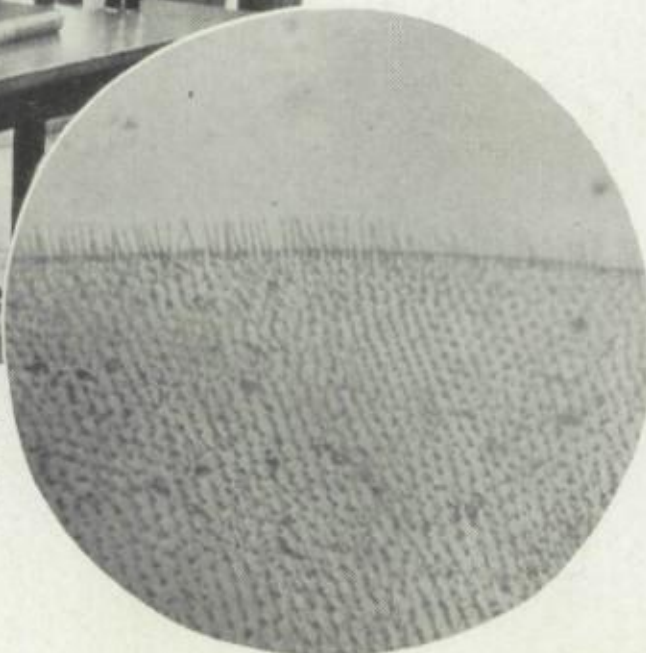

There's a problem; now solve it. Philander Durkee is doing well on the arcs and angles, but if he slips, Miss Helen Heck sits ready to help him. Next in line will be Mae Mains. Interested spectators are Mary Ellen O'Jala, Beverly Dunn, Constance Butwin, and Edward Frank.

Bettie Hanson and Vernon Johnson are only two of the many Central students to receive their first introduction to chemistry's mysteries, from titration to hydrogen sulphide, under the expert supervision of Mr. Alfred Buser, genial laboratory professor and first vice president in charge of boosting athletics at Central.

They peer through microscopes and see things like the enlarged photomicrograph of a fly's wing seen in the circle. Dissecting frogs, collecting butterflies, and inspecting leaves are also favorite pastimes of these biology students, Donald Smith, Byron Hueller, and Howard Frost.

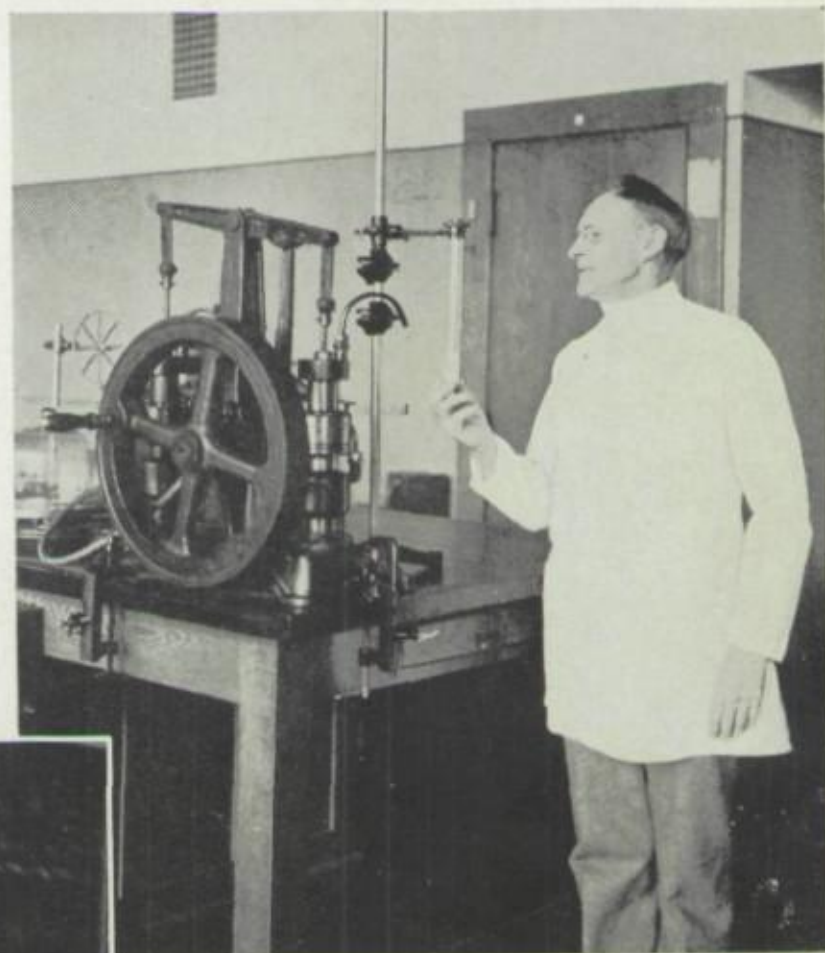

Biology, physiography, chemistry, physics, and mathematics constitute the very comprehensive science course offered in the present curriculum. Fully half of Central's students study one or more of these subjects under a department of nearly twenty capable instructors.

With at least two years of high school mathematics required for college entrance, plane and solid geometry have the largest enrollments, with only a decided minority continuing into higher algebra and trigonometry.

Due to the crowded conditions at Central, classes in physics and chemistry are limited to juniors and seniors and are always filled to capacity. The laboratories connected with these courses give students an opportunity for actual experimentation and research.

Actual dissecting of animals as well as the study of the makeup of the body features the biology course. Physiography, the science of the contour, makeup, and changes of the earth's surface, is a popular subject, and its study is enhanced by the glacial deposits and varied features of this section of the country.

Interspersing physics with witticisms and parables, Mr. Clarence Eastman has a minor claim to fame in his classic remark, "If a dry cell is dry, it won't sell." Here we see him taking a temperature reading, but elsewhere he advises the Camera and Radio Clubs and is just as interested as his boys.

There's Wrong I don't know anything either.

It looks like a maze of gadgets to us, but Joel Johnson, Robert Ganzel, and Barbara Goodsell, physics students, seem to be able to find the focal length of lenses from it.

Advising the "Times", teaching journalism and English, directing the "Times' Revue", and advising "Quill and Scroll" don't leave Miss Olive Allen with a great deal of spare time, but she'll drop everything to listen to a story about dogs, her favorite hobby.

"Behind the headlines" sit Frank Neu, June Jensen, Al Schwab, Herschel Caplan, and Earl Dunne, striving to bring order out of chaos in the "Times" room to make the deadline.

Creating another excellent "World" for us, Margaret Blegen and Marion Dornfeld confer with Miss Grace Cochran, editorial adviser for our literary magazine. English is pleasant under her, too.

A look of envy came into the photographer's eyes as he, a mere "hunt-and-pecker", watched Gayle Skipton's fingers dart nimbly about the keyboard. Hundreds of other girls get training in typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, and business correspondence in Central's business department.

I wish I could write shorthand like you do — Gayle S.

Required of all students, English in Central has had the double purpose of making the student familiar with the background, history, and the greatest authors in the several fields of literature as well as giving him better command of the language. Included in the subjects are American and English literature, drama, poetry, and short stories. New courses are world literature open to seniors and modified English offered to students not planning to enter college.

Practical literary experience is gained through the journalistic undertakings, the "Times", the weekly newspaper, the "World", the magazine, and the "Cehisean", the senior yearbook.

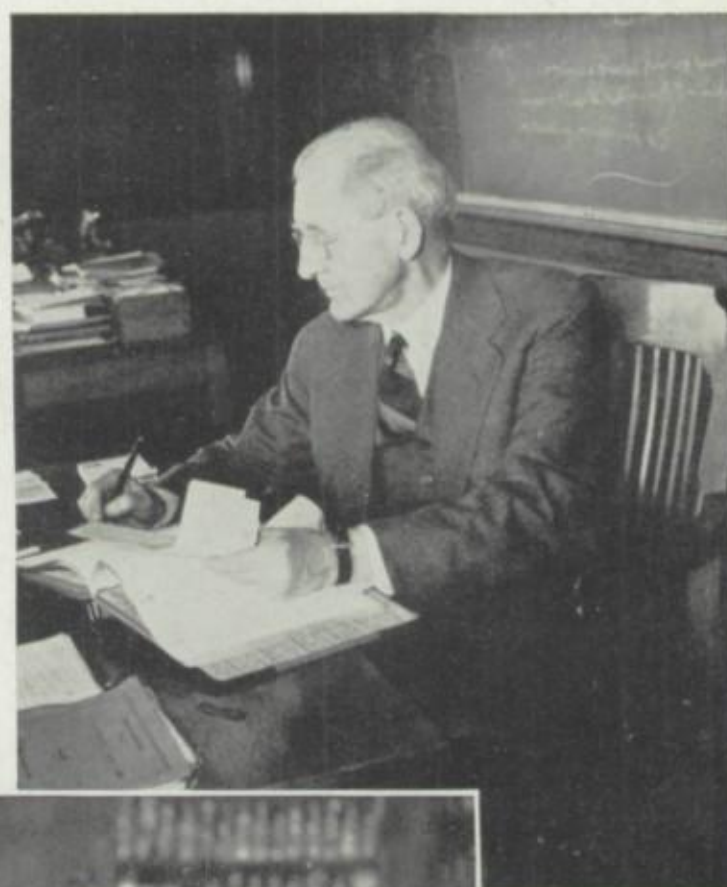

The commercial course teaches the theory of business ethics and practice in addition to practical business experience. Instruction is given in three major subjects, bookkeeping, typing, and shorthand. These are supplemented by courses in office practice, business correspondence, commercial law, and world history.

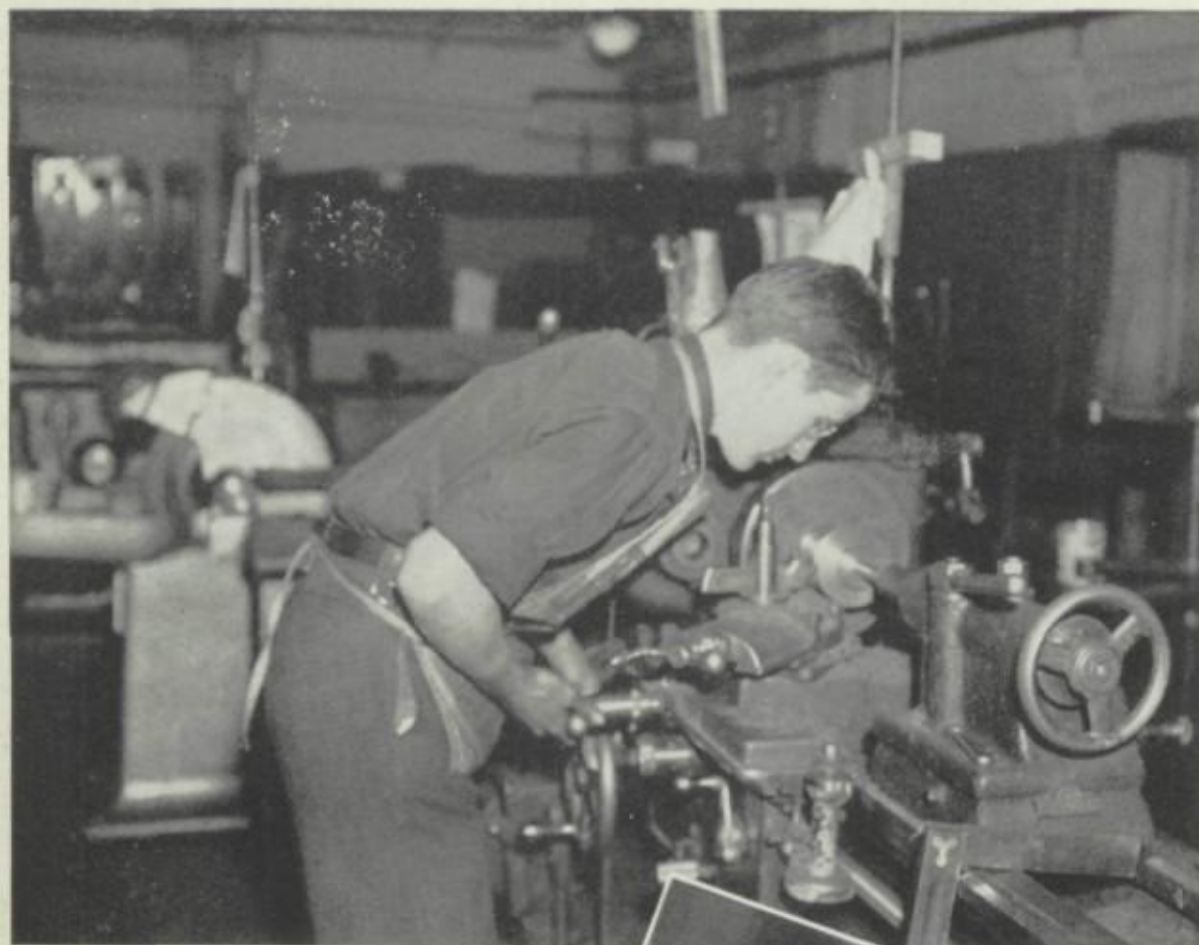

"Practice makes perfect." We see Mr. William Bush admiring the targets of his ambitious proteges. Besides advising the Rifle club, he is modern to the minute in his ideas of chemistry.

Matters of state are no doubt being discussed, for don't you recognize Bernard Anderly, junior class president, and Albert Moorman, general chairman of the J. S., taking up the time of Miss Cora Timme, their class adviser? They seem to enjoy the discussion.

That pleasant occupation, handling money, takes up the time of Mr. Robert Brockman, faculty bursar, when he isn't teaching book-keeping or advising the Chess club. Keeping track of Central's varied financial affairs makes it duck soup for this man to defeat any and all of his club members at the ancient and honorable game of chess.

Manipulating $1100 worth of machinery is no child's play; so John Schroeder can feel proud of his ability to make things go without their running amuck. Mr. Robert Berg, metal shop instructor, teaches him and many others the gentle art.

To some a woman's place is in the home, but to Dot Maxness, shop is her hide-out. The girls' woodwork shop in which she learned to make that candelabra has become a popular part of the curriculum under Mr. Lewis Harnsberger.

Working on a more pliable substance than John Schroeder and his metal, Merlin Sorum chose wood shop for his industrial art. Taking the grunt out of some of the work is the job of the mechanical planer that Merlin is working. Mr. Albert Schwabe taught him how.

Drawing boards and sharp edged tools take the place of textbooks and chalk in the classrooms in Central's basement and sub-basement.

Industrial arts including wood-turning, cabinet making, mechanical drawing, home planning, and metal working are irresistible to numbers of boys and a handful of girls, and from their classes come delicate, beautiful, useful, and sturdy articles. Airplane and other models, magazine racks, book cases, and desks are constructed by the manual experts.

Caught in a bad lie, Mr. Harry Smith, history teacher, will doubtless find a way out. He takes a savage joy in confusing class speakers and playing golf.

Alpha, beta, and the rest of the alphabet are not Greek to Mr. William McGovern, for not only does he teach his regular Latin students, but he voluntarily instructs a group of knowledge seekers in the mysteries of Greek.

We doubt whether Jack Peninger is actually stuck on that problem in geometry, but it's entirely probable that Miss Martha Sjoberg is explaining something about it which will make it doubly interesting.

Football coach, basketball coach, baseball coach, and, last but not least, physiography teacher, Mr. Playford Reed has rapidly made himself popular with the students.

A quiet sanctuary for study, the library is a boon to students all day long.

Calendar

Sept. 1—Hot, huh? Heddy hides his head. Johnny Perrin, the dainty milkman.

Sept. 7—Pigskin parade on Dunning Field as football practice begins.

Sept. 14—School begins. Isn't there anything we can do about it? Guy Prescott, Don Roberts, Allen Orensteen, and girls seem happy though.

Sept. 15—Second hand books? The S. C. bookstore does a rushing business with Lucille Varner and Betty Crogan behind the bars.

Sept. 16—Rule, Schultz, and Co. begin polishing the mourners' bench.

Sept. 20—Football charges into the picture. Central begins successful season by packing South St. Paul Packers 13 to 0.

Oct. 16—Swing it, Drummajor, Betsy Hand-sacker!

Oct. 7—Babies with brains. Sophomore honor medals presented to Erna Kuck, Ted Kuck, Mary Matkin, Marietta Brandhorst, Betty Jane Myro, Martha Nyquist, and Ellen Royley.

Oct. 8—Howard you do it, Bob? Bob Howard, Norma Rosness, and Betty Flad hold Junior class officer.

Oct. 9 — First "Times" comes out with Charles Fletcher as editor-in-chief.

Calendar

Oct. 9—Charles Morscheck chosen Student Council President, Vernon Johnson, vice-president, Maxine Thomas, secretary, and Bernard Anderly, treasurer.

Oct. 17—Seniors pick Bob Dougan, Peggy Hohn, Ruth Zaun, and Eugene Schway as class officers.

Oct. 22—They have the cares of the "World" on their shoulders. "World" staff appointed with Charles Fletcher editor-in-chief and Annette Shedorsky and Bud Nye associates.

Oct. 23—From Monkman to editor! We have our Simpson, too. Jim Monkman and Mary Ellen Simpson appointed "Cehisean" editors. Yes, Howie Ridgeway caught that pass and we won from Mechanics 13 to 6. Dave Beatson had a squirrel in that hand, but Miss Hagin cut it off. Guess it was out of season.

Oct. 30—Uniforms DO help! Central loses football game to Cretn, 19 to 6.

Nov. 6—Ah, peace! Minnesota Educators' Association meets for two days.

Nov. 16—The youths among us have election day. Anna May Togerson, Doris Bohlig, and Jeanne Herrmann hold sophomore class offices.

Nov. 18—Jim Monkman and Mary Ellen Simpson start worrying about the "Cehisean". Tom Hope seems to like that phone call. Wonder if it's actually "Cehisean" business.

Nov. 20—They were impressed, too. Thirty Central journalists travel to Mankato for the state high school press convention. Bernard Anderly elected state president after Al Schwab's glowing nomination.

Dec. 3—Dean Carlstrom wins Herrmann cup at "C" Club Banquet.

Dec. 4—Ted Randolph of Mechanics and Herschel Caplan of Central meet and shake hands at the National Press Convention at Detroit.

Dec. 10—Annual style show keeps boys wondering.

1937 "Times" staff appointed with Herschel Caplan as editor-in-chief.

Dec. 15—Fred Walters and Carol Strane seem to be enjoying this pow-wow.

Dec. 18—Christmas pageantry in all its beauty. Dunlap and Miller make it a memorable occasion, and Bud Medaris almost swallowed his mustache in disappointment.

All the World—at least 1250 of them—have subscribed to the literary magazine.

Dec. 18—Macey reign forever! Befreckled Gayle Skipton chosen Macey Queen.

Dec. 18—Christmas Vacation begins!

Dec. 28—Guilt all over their faces. Margaret Nell Romans and Mary Jo Zuppke were actually throwing snow on that poor little dog.

Jan. 6—It's not fall, but the leaves start turning. Finals announced.

Jan. 7—Some people like the boy in the plaid jacket actually study.

Jan. 7—But that guy in the suede jacket?

Jan. 15—Here it cubs. Cub edition comes out under Betty Bleecker's direction.

Jan. 19—Central spellers tie Minneapolis North in spelling bee over KSTP.

Feb. 1—Finals over—we all relax. New term begins.

Feb. 18—We'd be scared too, George.

Feb. 18—He did it! The villain! The culprit! Frances Merk accuses Allen Orensteen of betraying Dolores Kernkamp's affections in "Once In A Blue Moon", sung by members of the Glee Club at the Glee-Times Follies.

Feb. 18—Natalie Kolb's original song, "Out At Sea," was first on the hit parade of the Follies.

Feb. 19—Long absent list. Don't be afraid, little children, it's only the Follies pirates glancing around at the second performance.

Feb. 19—Edie Okes spies the photographer at the Follies.

Feb. 23—Junior class election gets all tied up, but knot for good as Bernard Anderly and Al Moorman tie for president and Alice Godfrey and Sally Hagermann for vice president.

Feb. 25—The knot is untied! Bernard Anderly and Alice Godfrey and Gail Paulsen land on top.

Feb. 27—Washington crossed the Delaware, but Central crossed Washington 27 to 16 in a basketball game.

Mar. 2—They're all wet, but it's their 12th straight title. Karl Dedolph finishing and Judd Mulally starting in the record breaking medley as Central takes another city swim championship.

Mar. 4—Central's dance master, Al Moorman, announced general chairman of J. S.

Mar. 8—Central beats Harding in a thrilling overtime game 30 to 29.

Mar. 16—Jack Peninger, Polly Hagmann, Lucille Varner, and Paul Greig conduct the senior class as the respective officers should.

Mar. 17—All loyal Irishmen—including Johnson—attend the St. Patrick's Day Sunlight.

Mar. 18—"Cehisean" and "World" break all time subscription records. Tom Hope and George Clemens get headaches.

Mar. 19—"Times" receives Columbian medalist rating.

Mar. 19—It's oh, so hard to study when the warm breezes tell us spring is here. Thank goodness, Easter vacation has come.

April 1—Three guesses.

April 2—Commencement plans commence with Vernon Johnson as general chairman.

April 2—Roger Allen foiled by a thaw.

April 3—Reward for 3 years at hard labor. Mr. Marshall's stentorian tones announce 136 Honor Roll students with eleven graduating with distinction.

April 14—New National Honor Society members announced.

April 17—The eternal triangle!—In the spring a young man's fancy—

April 20—More of the same with Bob Earley getting obstacles out of the way.

April 21—Do you believe in signs? Now, now, girls.

April 22—Howard Schoonover gets behind the "Times."

April 27—Bob Madsen, president, Miss Ruby Moe, adviser, and Anna Mae Torgerson, vice-president, discuss affairs of state in the sophomore class.

May 5—What? Thomson without the super-red satin cheerleader's jacket?

May 12—Our bashful hero, William Rose, poses for a picture to give his admirers.

May 21—Bigger and better J. S.

May 24—Seniors reign at class day exercise.

May 24—Drop everything! The "Cehisean" out!

May 26—Louie May has a cavity filled by Jim Brack.

May 27—Quill and Scroll banquet and initiation.

June 5—Finals make us study for a change. The hard part is the swell weather we're having now.

June 7—Bob Dougan and Mary Ellen Simpson exchange editorial (?) comment about the "Cehisean" on the grassy slopes.

June 9—Norma Nilsen and Ann Benjamin wave "hello" to the U turning their backs to Central.

June 12—Dorothy Ekmon models what you almost wore at commencement.

June 15—The place to study now is the court—the subject, tennis.

June 18—Oh! We've waited 3 years for this. Commencement today.

June 19—Books are "Gone With the Wind". Visions of days to come.

Seniors, hail!

Class of 1937

The class of 1937 began its existence at a meeting on October 25, 1934, the purpose of which was that of organizing the new class to start the wheel of friendship turning. The constitution, written under the direction of Miss Mary Bryant, was soon adopted. The first officers to govern our class were Betty Bohlig, president; Margaret Bean, vice-president; Mary Ellen Simpson, secretary; and Charles Morscheck, treasurer. In adjusting ourselves to the new school life, we found that the semester quickly passed.

With the coming of the spring term a new group of class officers was elected. Those so honored were Vernon Johnson, president; Roger Berg, vice-president; Mary Ellen Simpson, secretary; and James Monkman, treasurer. It was at this time that Mrs. Amanda Johnson was introduced as class adviser, and for the following terms we were under her guidance. During this and the preceding term, representatives of the various school organizations spoke before the class on the nature of their clubs. The information we thus gained enabled us to begin our extra-curricular activities. The social event of the sophomore year was the class picnic held at Como Park in May.

In the fall of 1935, we returned to school as juniors and being old hands, we took the program in full stride. This semester James Monkman was the presiding officer, and was assisted by Helen Hurley as vice-president, Ruth Zaun as secretary, and Charles Gaskell as treasurer. The class program was carried out as befitting a junior class, and all too soon the spring term became a reality.

And farewell!

Class of 1937

Once again new officers were elected, and James Monkman retained his post as president. His new colleagues were Ann Benjamin, vice-president, and Gayle Skipton, secretary. Charles Gaskell was re-elected treasurer. The chief social event of the year was the Junior-Senior Ball. Kenneth Fullerton was general chairman, and the Ball was held on May 22 in Stem Hall. Our junior year concluded, we looked forward to vacation before commencing our final year in high school.

September, 1936, saw a new senior class begin its final preparation for completing their high school activities. The class elected Robert Dougan, Peggy Hohn, Ruth Zaun, and Eugene Schway as president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively.

The senior year became a comparatively easy one for some and a trying one for others, but all looked forward to Commencement Day when all would be rewarded. The chairman for this occasion was Vernon Johnson with Maxine Thomas, chairman of flower committee; Roslyn Bernstein, telephone committee; James Meier, arrangements; and Charles Gaskell, tickets. The Class Day chairman appointed by the executive committee was Robert Dougan. The officers of the final semester were Jack Peninger, president; Polly Hagmann, vice-president; Lucille Varner, secretary; and Paul Greig, treasurer.

JUNIOR OFFICERS FIRST TERM—

Albert Moorman, Norma Rosness, Robert Howard, Miss Cora Timme, Betty Flad.

Class of 1938

IN THE fall of 1935, a new group of sophomores enrolled as members of Central's large student body. Although slightly bewildered at first, their paths were soon made clear under the able guidance of Miss Mary Bryant, who acted as their temporary adviser. With her help, the class, quickly organized, electing Albert Moorman at its head as president, Gail Paulsen as vice-president, Mary Louise Gehan as secretary, and Thomas Bauer as treasurer. The various committees necessary to the class work were the finance committee, headed by Robert Howard, the card filing committee, whose chairman was Carol Abel, and the program committee, with Donald Roberts at its head. Miss Cora Timme was welcomed as the class's new and permanent adviser.

During the beginning of the spring term, the class again elected officers. Sam Sweet assumed the responsible position of president, Edie Okes of vice-president, Mary Blanchard of secretary, and Thomas Bauer of treasurer. Robert Howard retained his position as chairman of the finance committee, while Ruth Keister was appointed chairman of the program committee, Cynthia Burgess of the card filing committee, and Celeste Ausman of the poster committee.

When the class of 1936 entered its second year, it was headed by Robert Howard, president; Norma Rosness, vice-president; Betty Flad, secretary; and Albert Moorman, treasurer.

Half out!

JUNIOR OFFICERS SECOND TERM—

Charles Hammond, Alice Godfrey, Bernard Anderly, Miss Cora Timme, Gail Paulsen.

Class of 1938

The chairmanship of the card-file committee was assumed by Laurola Walsh, the program committee by Alice Godfrey and Bernard Anderly, the poster committee by Sally Hagerman, and the finance committee by Gail Paulsen. This latter committee had the responsibility which each succeeding Junior class undertakes, the collection of the dues for all classes of the school. Another responsibility, the planning of the Junior-Senior Prom, was also assumed by the class at this time. Albert Moorman was chairman of the committee in charge of these plans, and the prom was held Friday, May 21, at Stem Hall.

The class elected Bernard Anderly, president; Alice Godfrey, vice-president; Gail Paulson, secretary; and Charles Hammond, treasurer at the beginning of its second junior term. Richard Kennedy was appointed chairman of the program committee.

Junior Senior Prom

STEM HALL, at the Auditorium, was the scene of much festivity and frivolity on the night of May 22, 1936, when the seniors were entertained by the class of '37. James Monkman, junior class president, led the grand march with Marion Dornfeld, his guest. Next in line was the senior class president, Jack Mitchell, with May Morgan as his guest. The gay crowd danced to the rhythmic orchestra of Jerry O'Day. General chairman for the J. S. was Kenneth Fullerton, who was also in line with his guest, Peggy Hohn.

Sophomore Honor Medals

IN THE year 1930, the Student Council determined that some recognition should be given to the students in Central who in their sophomore year maintained a straight "A" average. Therefore, in the fall of 1930, the first Sophomore Honor Medals were awarded.

For the first four years, not more than four medals were awarded in any single year, but in 1935, the Student Council presented eight medals, the largest number ever awarded, to those juniors for scholastic achievement in their sophomore year. From these studious sophomores have come many of those who graduate with distinction, continuing their fine scholarship records for three years. From the senior class of 1937, seven of the eleven graduates with distinction won honor medals as sophomores. They are Erna Kuck, James Monkman, Theodore Kuck, Patty Plank, Elaine LaPointe, Roslyn Bernstein, and John Peninger. Meta Deutschlander, twelfth on the Honor Roll, Erwin Goldenberg, nineteenth, and Anita Burns, twentieth, also won medals.

In 1936, the Student Council awarded seven medals. The recipients were Marietta Brandhorst, Erna Kuck, Ted Kuck, Mary Matkin, Betty Jane Myrbo, Martha Nyquist, and Ellen Rowley.

Class of 1939

EVERY fall a new group of students moves under Central's protective wing. This group forms the nucleus of the class and is added to be those entering for the spring term. The enrollment during the second semester is approximately 1000 although it may fluctuate a little. Miss Mary Bryant is the organizer of every new class, and it was under her guidance, therefore, that the class of 1939 got its start.

The officers for the first term were Anna Mae Torgerson, president; Doris Bohlig, vice-president; Jean Hermann, secretary; and Jerry Kennedy, treasurer.

The spring term brought new members for the class and the introduction of its class adviser, Miss Ruby Moe. She will assist and advise the members of the class in their personal or collective undertaking during the next two and one-half years. The expressed purpose of the sophomore meetings is to enlighten the student body as to the nature of the various school organizations. This procedure is a worthwhile one which offers an introduction to the extra-curricular activities of Central.

The officers for the second semester were Robert Madsen, president; Anna Mae Torgerson, vice-president; Frances Nilsen, secretary; and Arthur Eggert, treasurer.

Committee chairmen for the two semesters were: finance, Arthur Eggert and Edward Van Housen; card-file, Doris Holden and Rene Geduldig; poster, Patricia Mabin and Jerry Kennedy.

Sophomore Girls' Glee Club

CENTRAL students who have heard the Glee Club composed of juniors and seniors are usually unaware that most of the girls in this glee club received their preliminary training in the Sophomore Girls' Glee Club. The latter organization, although founded primarily to prepare sophomore girls for work in the more advanced Glee Club, has other features.

Those girls who have unusually gifted voices can be discovered early and given an opportunity to take part in the "Times Revue," Band Concert, or assemblies for which talent is always sought. Most of the girls, who meet after period nine every Wednesday, do so for the pure joy of singing inasmuch as the club does not appear often before the public. The last meeting has been planned, however, and if time permits, members may sing at various churches throughout the city. The club sings almost entirely three part music, first and second soprano and alto. The membership is held at thirty-five though many more than this try out.

Miss Lillian M. Knott is the adviser of this group. The officers for the fall term were Georgia Robinson, president, and secretary, Margal Johansen. There are no dues; hence no treasurer is necessary. Betty Jo Arnold is president for this semester, and Shirley Howe is the club's secretary.

Our clubs and societies constitute the major part of our extra-curricular activity for most of us. Here we relax from the formality of getting an education and allow our personal tastes free rein in joining one or more of the wide variety of clubs that Central offers. Designed to encompass the interests of all students, they are often the beginning of lifelong friendships and invariably a source of enjoyment and interesting experiences.

Clubs

First row: Miss Mary Bryant, Bernard Anderly, Vernon Johnson, Maxine Thomas, Charles Morscheck, Miss Pearl Knight, Harold Baldwin, Miss Irma Meili.
Second row: Mary Jane Sweeney, Louise Thompson, James Ennis, Norma Rosness, Paul Herzog, Dorothy Doyle, Robert Earley, Gail Paulsen, Hester Jewell.
Third row: Jean Eberhardt, Margaret Bean, Sally Hagmann, Edward Van Housen, Robert Madsen, Frank Ashley, Carol Sterner, Helen Hurley, Harry Nye, Jane Sweney.

Student Council

AT THE beginning of the fall semester the Student Council undertakes its active duties in student government. Its chief purpose is to promote a sense of good citizenship among the students and to maintain a feeling of harmony between faculty and student body. The representatives elected from the home-rooms select the council members by ballot. It is one of the duties of this representative group to bring before the council all student problems encountered in their respective home-rooms.

The Council directs the school bookstore, the archives, the traffic squad, the point system, the school improvement committee, and the Student Council Court. This year's more important activities includes holding Sunlite Dances, directing of the J. S. Dancing class, boosting attendance of basketball games, collecting of money for the Community Chest, securing funds for a stage to be built in Room 301, and presenting Sophomore Honor Medals. The bookstore is a student project where second hand books are bought and sold, and profits from this project are placed in a fund for school betterment.

The advisers are Miss Pearl Knight, Miss Irma Meili, and Miss Mary Bryant. This year's officers are Charles Morscheck, president; Vernon Johnson, vice-president; Maxine Thomas, secretary; and Bernard Anderly, treasurer. The entire student body elects them in the fall to serve for the entire year.

Justice for all!

First row: Robert Baker, Janet Miller, Charles Gaskell, Mary Jane Mayer, Robert Howard.
Second row: Mr. J. Sexton, Jack Shimek, Helen O'Brien, William Watson.

Student Council Court

IN SPITE of several decisions unfavorable to some of Central's citizens, no attempts have as yet been made to "pack" Central's "Supreme Court," conducted under the supervision of the Student Council and composed solely of students of Central.

Formed within the past year, the court has been established to try and to sentence, if guilty, all persons accused of breaking Student Council ordinances. Meeting whenever enough cases have collected on the docket to warrant a session, the court tries such offenses as eating elsewhere than in the cafeteria, placing books on the trophy cases, disorderly conduct in the halls, throwing snowballs on the campus, or disobeying traffic regulations of the parking lot. Sentences range from small fines to writing the ordinance one hundred times. Students illegally attending court sessions are found in contempt of court and fined, and one who ignores a summons is turned over to the school authorities. Although the present Student Council Court is not the first of its kind in the school, it has so far proved itself the most efficient.

Miss Mary Bryant, Miss Pearl Knight, and Miss Irma Meili, Student Council advisers, were instrumental in its formation. Charles Gaskell is chief justice, Robert Baker, Robert Howard, Mary Jane Mayer, and Janet Miller are associate judges. Jack Shimek is prosecuting attorney, and William Watson is clerk of court. Mr. Jerold Sexton acts as court adviser.

First row: Ruth McManigal, Roslyn Bernstein, Janet Miller, Eugene Schway, Maxine Thomas, Sholom Barron, Alice Godfrey, Theodore Kuck, Joan Powers, Frank Neu, Virginia Hoffstrom, Mary Ellen Simpson.
 Second row: Anita June Williamson, Helen Hurley, Erna Kuck, Vernon Johnson, Ruth Lewis, Mary Louise Baskerville, Marion Steffen, Robert Howard, Janet Erickson, Harry Simmonds, Elaine LaPointe, Cordelia Swinborne, Frances Solem, Marjorie Robbers.
 Third row: Marjorie Hermann, Marion Senn, Annette Abrahamson, Gordon Rood, Marietta Brandhorst, Charles Sewrey, Paul Greig, George Clemens, Walter Albrecht, Winifred Matters, Jeanette Gelin, Margaret Blegen, Meta Deutschlandler.

National Honor Society

MEMBERSHIP to the National Honor Society is the greatest honor which can be awarded a high school student and is given only to those who have excelled in all four of its requirements, scholarship, service, leadership, and character.

In the twelfth year of its existence, the National Honor Society has come more and more to mean to the high school pupil what Phi Beta Kappa means to a college student—honor in its highest attainment. A centralization of organization on a national basis is maintained through the direction of all the chapters by a National Council. Central's Society is under the direction of a group of six faculty members, Miss Edith Haigh, the chairman, Mrs. Amanda Johnson, Mr. William Bush, Miss Anna Dickson, Mr. Lewis Harnsberger, and Miss Cora Timme.

Candidates for membership after due consideration and careful thought are nominated and elected by the faculty members. Not more than fifteen percent of the senior class and not more than five percent of the junior class may be admitted to this organization. Scholarship is considered one of the first essentials, for a student, to be eligible, must be in the upper third of his class in addition to participating in extra curricular activities. Membership in the National Honor Society is the ultimate reward that every Centralite hopes to win, and it is one which when bestowed is recognized by all.

Historical Society

DO YOU remember John Doe of the class of '92? You don't, but you want some information on that individual. There is probably no other single place which contains as much specific data on him as the Historical Society file. In a few minutes a member will give you his picture and a detailed account of what he has done in the last forty-five years. The records of all of the 12,000 graduates since 1890 are contained in these files. A committee operating daily during sixth period carries on this most necessary research work, gathering information on a graduate's life after his years of Central are completed, and also filing all school publications in book form.

Miss Mary J. Newson founded the present Historical Society in 1908. Members are selected by the faculty solely for their academic achievements, and membership is then awarded. This organization holds four meetings a year, the first being the election meeting and the last, the initiation of the new members. This year's social meeting took the form of progressive games with James Monkman acting as master of ceremonies.

The advisers are Miss Claire Boody and Miss Ellen Simon. This year's officers are Vernon Johnson, president; Robert Howard, vice-president; Maxine Thomas, recording secretary; and Meta Deutschlander, corresponding secretary.

Future authors!

First row: Virginia Hoffstrom, Bernard Anderly, Meta Deutschlander, Herschel Caplan, Mary Ellen Simpson, Alfred Schwab, Miss Olive Allen.

Second row: Esther Makiesky, Theresa McGinnis, Joan Powers, Geraldine Chinnock, Hester Jewell, Toby Lee.

Third row: Eleanor Johnson, Corrine Newton, Frank Neu, Jeanne Popp, Alice Godfrey.

Quill and Scroll

CHEWED pencils, furrowed brows and frequent calls for copy and more copy are predominant features of those who seek to join Quill and Scroll, for they must have done noteworthy work on one of Central's three publications, the "Times", "Cehisean", and "World", and have submitted it to the national secretary at Chicago. Not only is ability in writing a requirement but scholarship also is necessary for the student desiring entrance in this honorary organization, for he must be in the upper third of his class.

Founded in 1931 by Grace N. Elliot, for whom the chapter is named, this chapter of 17 members is under the advisership of Miss Olive Allen. This year members in conjunction with the Student Council worked on the revision of the "Minute Man" under the direction of Alice Godfrey. New teachers, schedules, clubs, and time of their meetings according to the 1937 schedule will be included in this booklet. Initiation of members took place at the home of Barbara Hagmann, former "Times" editor, where both alumni and members took extreme delight in torturing the neophytes. Following another tradition, the members were served the usual chowmein and orange ice dinner. After this, the spring initiation with its candle lighting ceremony took place at a downtown hotel under the direction of Frank Neu.

Officers are Herschel Caplan, president; Bernard Anderly, vice-president; Mary Ellen Simpson, secretary; and Meta Deutschlander, treasurer.

The World is theirs!

First row: Meta Deutschlander, Richard Kennedy, Virginia Hoffstrom, Margaret Blegen, Marian Dornfeld, Frank R. Neu, Wanda J. Wujek.
Second row: Jane Stoffer, Geraldine Chinnock, Mary Ellen Simpson, Herschel Caplan, Sally Hagerman, Theresa McGinnis, Hester Jewell, Lois Kirk.
Third row: Harry Nye, Sheva Rosenthal, Joan Miquelon, Jack Spear, Jeanne Popp, Toby Lee.

Literary Club

THE outstanding project of the Literary Club each year is the publication of the "World", Central's literary magazine. The actual selecting and editing of all material for the "World" is done by the "World" staff, which is chosen from members of the Literary Club. Virginia Hoffstrom was this year's editor-in-chief, and her associate editors were Harry Nye and Annette Shedorsky. Meta Deutschlander and Frank Neu headed the art and business departments respectively.

In the fall the club held its second annual school-wide literary contest, which was divided into four sections. Winners were Charles Sewrey in the critical division, Myra Bloom in the essay department, Rita Cruttenden in the short story section, and Hester Jewell in the poetry division. Myron Lieberman was the contest chairman. Among the speakers at the meetings this year were Mr. Dietrich Lange, naturalist and author, who spoke on "The Writing Game", and Mr. Foster Kienholz, head of the typography department at Broadway Press, who spoke on certain aspects of his work and exhibited several examples of fine bindings. New members this fall after a gruelling initiation were royally entertained at a Hallowe'en tea.

The first term's officers were Margaret Blegen, president; Annette Shedorsky, vice-president; Theresa McGinnis, secretary; and Richard Kennedy, treasurer. Miss Grace Cochran is the literary adviser. The business and art departments are headed by Miss Dorothy Baumgart and Miss Elizabeth Stroble.

First row: Owen Swenson, Mr. Clarence Eastman, Leslie Deppe, Howard Schoonover, David Erickson, Daniel Drummerhausen, Alton Christensen.
Second row: Albert Stein, Bernard Craine, Robert Spielman, Willard Dubord, Arthur Johnson, James Stodolka, Donald Rowell.
Third row: Irwin Mattson, Elmer Kunze, Russell Jensen, Donald Anderson, James Kleason, Robert Glishinski, Wayne Fletcher.

Radio Club

*E*XPERIMENTERS, short wave listeners, and just plain amateurs make up the membership of Central's Radio Club. The Radio Club operates the government licensed station W9MQW, but members own and operate at least ten other stations.

This year the members eliminated all social activities and reorganized on a purely scientific basis. The meetings are held every Friday behind the physics laboratory, where pictures and talks on transmission and reception in radiotelegraphy are the usual order of the day. During the past year a contest on the point basis was held for short wave transmitters and listeners. Howard Schoonover won first prize on the transmitting division, and Alton Christensen took first honors in the listeners' division.

Membership in the Radio Club is open to any boy at Central who can pass a test on various phases of radio work. The officers for the fall semester were president, James Stodolka; vice-president, Donald Anderson; secretary, Leslie Deppe; and treasurer, Dan Drummerhausen. This semester's president is Howard Schoonover; vice-president, Leslie Deppe; secretary, David Erickson; and treasurer, Dan Drummerhausen. Alton Christensen is chief operator this semester, succeeding Howard Schoonover. Mr. Clarence Eastman, an ultra-high frequency experimenter, is the adviser.

Shootin' high!

First row: Evelyn Storberg, Harold Baldwin, Frederick Walters, Margaret Bean, Floyd Piper, Mr. William Bush, Frank Ashley, Russell Jensen, Marjorie Robbers.
 Second row: Barbara Samuelson, Ted Kuck, Helmer Johnson, Whitney Countryman, Elizabeth Hauser, Edward Chapman, Robert English, Frederick Joerns, Betty Madsen.

Rifle Club

CENTRAL'S Daniel Boones, otherwise known as the Rifle Club, meet on the first and third Tuesday of every month. The rifle team is made up of the best marksmen in the club, and it is ranked in the "B" division of the National Bi-Weeklies, that part of the National Rifle Association in charge of high schools. Team members are eligible to receive a letter, provided they are not over eighteen years old. Central's team, like the others in the same division, begins shooting in October and continues for twelve weeks when scores are compared. Starting again in January, the same procedure goes on until May.

As the city inter-school matches were discontinued this year, matches with out-of-state schools were arranged by mail. Central was defeated by Upper-Derby of New York in one of these matches and defeated Appleton of Wisconsin in a later contest.

Officers serve for two terms. At the present time they are: president, Floyd Piper; vice-president, Frederick Walters; and secretary, Margaret Bean. The team is captained by Floyd Piper, and members are Edward Chapman, Ted Kuck, Robert English, Fred Joerns, Helmer Johnson, Fred Walters, Elizabeth Hauser, Whitney Countryman, and Margaret Bean. Mr. William Bush is the adviser.

First row: Frank Ashley, Sally Hagerman, Albert Moorman, Bernard Anderly, Norma Rosness, Weston Harmon, Mrs. Mary Harmon.
Second row: Jane Sweney, Margaret Romans, Margaret Moran, Donna Benson, Harry Simmonds, Jeannette Dewars, Lois Lasker, Marian Krautkremer, Ann Benjamin.
Third row: Sholom Barron, Bettie Hanson, Janis Christensen, Robert Thomson, Betty Bohlig, Betty Miller, Richard Heddy.

Travel Club

THE streets are always crowded on Market Day in Mexico City." This and similar sentences are what you may hear if you are in 214 or 301 on the first and third Monday of each month. The Travel Club is one of the largest clubs in the school, for students are vitally interested in foreign lands. The club has just completed its fourth year as a student forum for knowledge on foreign lands and customs including the topography and physical features of those lands.

In order to become a member of this club, the participant must prepare a two-minute talk on travels in foreign countries or the United States. Members of the club and outside speakers further the knowledge of the members on their own and other lands. The first meetings in every month are open to the student body at large. At one of the meetings this year Miss Helen Hagin gave an illustrative travelogue on Mexico showing moving pictures, some of them in natural color, which were taken while on her trip to Mexico.

In December the club as a whole enjoyed an illustrated talk on Vienna and Austria by Miss Katherine Tschida, a teacher of Mechanic Arts High School. At one meeting several students were appointed to lecture on Austria's contribution in the fields of music and science previous to the World War.

and everywhere!

Travel Club

This was the first of a series of meetings of this kind, which have been continued. Records of outstanding compositions of Mozart, Hayden, Schubert, Litz, and Johann Strauss were played on the phonograph at one program.

Two of several speakers who have spoken to the club are Miss Anderson, who spoke on Australia, and Mrs. Amanda Johnson, who spoke on Norway. Monthly meetings had as theme topics countries such as Alaska and Bolivia. Moving pictures depicting a trip from Los Angeles to New York were shown at one meeting.

Officers for the fall semester were Bernard Anderly, president; Norma Rosness, vice-president; Weston Harmon, secretary; and Albert Moorman, treasurer. Those of the spring term were Gayle Skipton, president; Jane Sweney, vice-president; Mary Jo Zuppke, secretary; and Margaret Romans, treasurer. Mrs. Mary Harmon is the adviser of the club. Students on the membership committee, Albert Moorman, Bernard Anderly, John Strand, and Betty Bohlig, under the leadership of Norma Rosness, are in charge of tryouts, initiations, and social affairs. Head of the program committee is Norma Nilsen who prepares club programs assisted by Ruth Zaun, David Ruff, Vernon Johnson, and Lewis May. Publicity is in charge of Barbara Goodsell, and the all-activities committee is headed by Sally Hagerman.

Big tacks-little tacks!

Fourth row: Kenneth Wujek, John Effinger.

Thumb Tacks

*J*UST as a printer needs his ink, so Central needs the Thumb Tack Club. Every organization that needs publicity calls upon members for the making of posters.

Every second and fourth Wednesday of the month is the scene of much activity in Room 319. The club has completed such projects as eight color charts for each senior high school art teacher, an illustrated map of Stillwater, and a huge illustrated poster for Ramsey County Medical Association. Thumb Tacks do not always work but often play. The annual sleighride again slid out of the picture and took the form of a toboggan party at Highland Park. A picnic will be enjoyed in June at Miss Goodell's summer home on the St. Croix at Afton where cherry pie is the annual feature. This club also sponsored a popcorn sale April 7 for the purpose of raising money to purchase a printing press. P. J. Hoffstrom and his "Lanthorn Slides" on baseball entertained at an open meeting. Staging for "Once in a Blue Moon" was also designed and executed by Thumb Tacks.

Officers for the fall term were Chief Tack, Clifford Goebel; Assistant Chief Tack, Dorothy K. Olson; Penholder, Margaret Cheney; and Tacks Collector, Kenneth Wujek; and Ralph Hoska, Kenneth Wujek, Susan Peterson, and Jerome Egan held the same offices for the spring term.

Art for art's sake!

Lorraine Wellman, Luana Faust, Anita June Williamson, Meta Deutschlander, Louis Cooperman, Almeda Glendenning, Jean Steele, Kenneth Beutow, Jeannette Amos, Eileen Jones, Patricia Hanley, Mary Kohlsaat, Ethel Anderson, Charlotte Wagner, June Westlund, Lucille Haddad, Peggy Sjoselius, Harold Johnson, Jeanette Gelin, Cordelia Swinborne, James Zostero.

Triads

*J*UST before Christmas when students were walking through the halls, they often encountered other students with long rolls of paper under their arms and a "high pressure salesmanship" gleam in their eyes. These salesmen were ambitious members of the Triads, and the wrapping paper represented the fall project of that club. Centerpieces for the family Christmas table were made at one of the weekly meetings. They were evergreen boughs bearing cones, arranged in beds of clay around the base of red candles and sprinkled with plaster of Paris. Club funds are derived from the wrapping paper projects, and they usually go toward something that will benefit the whole school.

During the second semester members have been sketching with pencil or using water color to interpret studies. Many of the linoleum cuts which appeared in the "World" were done by Triads.

New members are initiated twice a year when the club has its social affairs. Officers are elected each semester. They were for the fall term president, Meta Deutschlander; vice-president, Marjorie Herrmann; treasurer, Richard Krengel; and secretary, Anita June Williamson. For the spring term the president was Charlotte Wagner; secretary, Ruth Lewis; and treasurer, Richard Krengel. Miss Elizabeth Stroble is the adviser.

Gentlemen of the press!

"Times"

ONE of the four winners in the United States of the Columbia Medalist Award for high schools with an enrollment of 2500 or more is our weekly paper, the "Times", which also won the All-Columbian rating this year, being one of 63 out of some 900 papers to be so honored. The All-Columbian is a mythical composite paper composed of high school papers chosen for general excellence. The "Times" award was for editorial and typographical achievement. Central's paper is the only one in Minnesota to receive this honor this year.

Heading last term's staff was Charles Fletcher as editor, assisted by Herschel Caplan, news editor; Frank Neu, feature editor; Albert Schwab, sports editor; Betty Crogan, girls' sports editor; George Murphy, city editor; Eleanor Johnson and Shirley Christians, copy editors; Joan Powers and Shirley McFaden, proof readers; Annette Shedorsky, home room editor; and Corine Newton, exchange editor.

All business!

First row: Paul Ritschel, George Clemens, Richard Lance, Earle Dunn, Porter Stanford, Robert Slifer, Charles Sewrey.
 Second row: Abe Berland, Edith Subra, Sylvia Labovitch, Weston Harmon, Marian Steffen, Vivian McCall, Florence Hindmarsh.
 Third row: Florence Gibbs, Robert Thomson, Doris Haskins, George Frussel, Mr. A. C. Anderson, Helen O'Brien, Harry Karasov, William R. Marvin.

"Times" Business Staff

BEHIND the whirl of the presses and the words of the reporter's pencil lies another part of the newspaper. Perhaps not as publicized as the other divisions, but always quietly doing its part is the business staff of the "Central High Times." The staff secured 1500 subscriptions, the largest circulation of any high school weekly in the Twin Cities.

The circulation department, headed by Charles Sewrey, has several duties. During the week two notices must be sent out to delinquent subscribers, and exchange papers must be sent out to other schools and individuals in addition to the weekly issuance of 1500 papers to Central subscribers. Friday mornings members of the circulation department must report to school early, receive the "Times" copies from the publishers, and arrange them for seventy room agents to distribute to the students. Mailing is done by Sylvia Labovitch. Typists are Florence Hindmarsh, Vivian McCall, and Marion Holton. The stenographer is Marion Steffen with Doris Haskins in charge of bookkeeping. Money is handled by Robert Slifer, while three boys, Porter Stanford, Robert Thomson, and Weston Harmon, go after advertising. Everyone on either the business or editorial staff brings in advertising if possible.

Supervising the whole staff is Earle Dunn, assisted by Richard Lance. Mr. Arthur C. Anderson is the adviser for the business staff.

Veni, vidi, vici!

First row: Dorothy Norsten, Ellen Rowley, Miss Florence Baber, Douglas Stenerson, Enid Williams, Jack Peninger, Ruth Lewis, Marjorie Paulsrud, Miss Daphne Shaull, Elaine Nelson, Buddy Orenstein.
Second row: Betty Westman, Mary Matkin, Doris Benson, Irene Riley, Marion Sandberg, Jean Eberhardt, Betty Morehead, Sally Wiesner, Margaret Jean McRae, Jeanne Killmer, Constance Butwin.
Third row: Lyle Vernon, Margaret Blegen, Marlys White, Betty Markus, Lylah Oberg, Sholom Barron, Donna Benson, Lucille Weise, Dorothy Holden, Elaine LaPointe, Earl Getsug.

Latin Club

THE thing to wear is a toga, the place to go is to the Latin Club's annual banquet, and the language to speak is, of course, Latin. One must speak Latin because the menu and the program printed on a scroll are written in the noble language.

Slaves, bowing low, bear the dinner in and, after serving it in true Roman style, come forth and are initiated. Scenes from Roman life or the declension of Latin nouns to the tunes of popular songs are often presented by the neophytes. However, not all is fun. Roman Saturnalia, which corresponds to our Christmas, was celebrated in accordance with the custom of those ancient people, and songs such as "Adeste Fideles," written in Latin, were sung. Latin students of Macalester College invited the members of the club to a play written by the classical author Plautus and presented on the college campus. Members of the Vergil class during the spring semester enacted the story of the heroic Aeneas and the faithful Dido for the enjoyment of the club members. Virgil honor medals are awarded each year to the students having attained the highest average in the study of Latin, Harry Simmonds and Lucille Wiese winning the award this year.

Leading the members into further study and frivolity are Jack Peninger, president; Ruth Lewis, vice-president; Enid Williams, secretary; and Douglas Stenerson, treasurer. Miss Florence Baber and Miss Daphne Shaull are the advisers.

Little German band

First row: Agnes Hovland, Frances Merk, Dumas, Otterson, Meta Deutschlander, Frederick Walters, Sally Wiesner, Joyce Johnson, Jeanne Jones, Eva Schrae.
Second row: Ruth Franklin, Fernadell Hattermann, Marion Joleson, Cynthia Burgess, Ted Kuck, Clara Meyer, Marion Senn, Jean Trantanella, Phyllis Growert.
Third row: Betty Madsen, Janet Erickson, Lylah Obérg, Norman Albrecht, Edith Gellert, Kathleen Wilsman, Gerald Gardell, Patricia Nichols, Ruth Baran, Phyllis Seith.
Fourth row: Roger Allen, Leonard Brochner, Marion Holton, Frederick Mayer, Robert Bodsgard, Dorothea Elsner, Howard Bushnell, Jack Sheehan, Eleanor Herwin.

German Club

*I*N THE year 1925, "Deutsche Studenten" in Central organized the German Club, a group now numbering about forty-five members with Miss Nellie Muller as adviser.

The club started its fall program by electing new members and initiating them. At the following meeting in November the club heard Mrs. Amanda Johnson talk on "My Impression of Germany" and Miss Florence Watson speak on the topic, "As I Saw the Olympic Games." Both of these discussions brought out many comments on life and events in modern Germany today. The next gathering in December was a Christmas party, which is one of the club's yearly social events. With the singing of "O Tannenbaum" and "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht" the Christmas party drew to a close. Every year the German club has staged an open meeting to which all parents and friends are invited. It was held this year in April and included a community sing, musical stunts, and solos by various club members. The second large social function, the annual picnic, was held in May. One of the club's projects has been an attractive program booklet, printed and issued to members to keep them informed concerning its activities. Meta Deutschlander designed the cover of the booklets.

The officers of the club are Frederick Walters, president; Meta Deutschlander, vice-president; Sally Weisner, secretary; and Dumas Otterson, treasurer.

Volumes and volumes!

First row: June Gess, Peggy Sjoselius, Dorothea Elsner, Miss Laurie Johnson, Frances Montgomerie, Dorothy Allanson, Joan Powers, Ellen Levy.

Second row: Charlotte Wagner, Meta Deutschlander, Elaine LaPointe, Lillian Ulanove, Florence Schroeder, Sheva Rosenthal, Agnes Hovland, Genevieve Christgau, Anne Ploszay.

Third row: Janet Erickson, Janis Christensen, Eleanor Johnson, Genevieve Waas, Polly Hagmann, Virginia Grant, Frances Schwied, Virginia St. Sauver, Dorothy Holden.

Tri - Sigma

NO student at Central who has had occasion to use the library will question the helpfulness of the Tri-Sigmas, Central's student librarians. The members of Tri-Sigma are volunteers who have served in the library at least one semester and who have maintained satisfactory scholastic averages. From September until just before finals in June, the members of Tri-Sigma serve in the library at least one period every day of the school year.

The practical experience gained by Tri-Sigmas is very valuable. Finding books and magazines is only a small part of their work. Discovering reference material on widely scattered fields, teaching the use of the card catalog, and shelving books are some of the other duties of the girls in this organization. One honor credit is given for each semester's work of one period a day.

Members find time to hold two social meetings during the year. The annual Christmas party was held on the last school day of 1936, December 18, and a picnic in June will be planned as usual. Officers the first semester were president, Janet Erickson; vice-president, Lois Elmquist; and secretary-treasurer, Agnes O'Brien. This semester Frances Montgomerie is president; Dorothy Allanson, vice-president; Dorothea Elsner, secretary; and Peggy Sjoselius, treasurer. The adviser is Miss Laurie C. Johnson, who is also head of the school library.

Transgressor beware! Wm Watson

First row: Miss Irma Meili, Raymond Ekwall, Helen O'Brien, Jack Shimek, Richard Hartman, Dorothy Jaeger, Mr. Arthur Anderson.
 Second row: Lucille Erickson, Eugene Phillips, Sheva Rosenthal, Herschel Caplan, Shirley Sigal, Eugene Herrick, Myrna Loague, Thomas Bauer.
 Third row: Joseph Friedmann, Anita Lake, Herbert Sloane, Muriel Burliengame, William Anderson, Edith Katz, Harry Speaks, Nancy Kasprzyk, Gerard Bloch.
 Fourth row: Edward Silverman, William Watson, Warren Kress, Vernon Heyne, Thornton Dennis, Robert Bodsgard, Paul Greig, Robert Spielman.

Traffic Squad

A VOLUNTEER organization indispensable to Central is the Traffic Squad. Members are on duty at all times during the school year. One of their first tasks is to help the confused new sophomores find their way about the school. At lunch periods, during assemblies, and between classes, members may be seen preserving order.

This year's squad of thirty-five constitutes the twelfth traffic squad at Central. An innovation this year was the "complaint slip" system. "Complaint slips" given to both judges and offenders are blanks which have the time, place, and nature of the violation on them. The judges may reach quick decisions inasmuch as there is no need for detailed questioning. Corridor and parking signs were repainted this year in more outstanding colors. Squad members offered their services at special functions.

Members are volunteers who have been recommended by Mr. Albert Meier and at least two other teachers. The squad's advisers, Miss Irma Meili and Mr. Arthur C. Anderson, then give their final approval to those prospective members who are acceptable. After two semesters of good service, emblems are awarded. Each succeeding semester means an additional stripe. The officers are captain, Jack Shimek; lieutenants, Helen O'Brien, Richard Hartman, and Raymond Ekwall; and secretary, Dorothy Jaeger. Anita Lake and Edythe Katz were in charge of the sleighride given in December.

Just ornithologists!

Third row: George Huff, Alan Rusterholtz, William Bergstrom, Henry Teipel, Herbert Sloane, Robert Caron.

Bird Club

WHAT bird has a call which resembles the sound of a squeaky wheel barrow? Which one climbs a tree spirally? How many of Minnesota's winged creatures can you identify? A written test covering these and many other curious facts regarding the nature of birds must be passed in order to be eligible to join Central's group of ornithologists. The Bird Club meets twice each month, some of the meetings being held at Central, while others are held in other places of interest to bird lovers.

At the University Farm School March 15, Dr. Ralph King, a member of the faculty in the Department of Conservation, addressed the group on the subject of bird banding. Invitations are often extended to members of biology classes to attend lectures given to the Bird Club. Spring and fall excursions into the country to get better acquainted with feathered friends are taken by the club. When the Central Bird Club were guests of the University Bird Club on the campus, March 18, Dr. Thaddeus Surber spoke to them on "Faunal Life Zones in Minnesota." Members of the Bird Club will again be guests of the campus group on their spring field trips.

Instructed by Miss Irma Meili, the officers are Frederick Walters, president; Robert Nelson, vice-president; Jeanette Gelin, secretary; and Bettie Hanson, treasurer.

Lindy's understudies!

First row: Ted Nelson, Neil Utberg, Helmer Johnson, Jack Kennedy, Clifford Molzahn, Boyd Emrick, George Crim.
 Second row: James Fillmore, Allan Chambers, Arthur Hutchinson, George Doeren, Harry Karasov, Mr. Lewis H. Harnsberger, Donald Shannon.
 Third row: Lawrence Uebel, Howard Bushnell, Gerald Skogmo, Frank Daggett, Henry Teipel, Howard Toeniges, Duane Davis.
 Fourth row: Kenneth Smith, Earl Mahle, Robert Dolen, Frank Eha, Frederick Walters, LeRoy Truesdell, Harold Schmotter, Myles Aiken.

Clifford Molzahn

Aeronautics Club

THE gentleman who "flies through the air with the greatest of ease" has little advantage over members of Central's Aeronautics Club. The boys in this organization are going to buy a glider and actually fly it to gain more knowledge of air currents.

Only those boys who have seriously made up their minds that aviation will be their life work or that it will be an avocation are allowed to join the club. Most of the members are in Mr. Harnsberger's aeronautics class where they build models and test them in the wind tunnel. Club meetings generally are held every Friday afternoon in room 104 during the eighth period. Trips are frequently taken by the club. Among the outside speakers the members heard were Limon Crissinger and Jerry Johnson, who spoke on parachutes and jumping. Charles Bodey, a former Central student, spoke on the aeronautical engineering course at the University of Minnesota. Members themselves often address the club on topics such as instruments, type of airplanes, famous flights and outstanding aviators. Trips to Holman Airport and to Wold-Chamberlain Airport were taken by the members during the fall term where the piloting, engineering, and mechanical phases of aeronautics were studied at close range.

Elections are held once a year in the fall. For 1936-37, Jack Kennedy is president; Helmer Johnson, vice-president; Neil Utberg, secretary; and Clifford Molzahn, treasurer. Mr. Lewis Harnsberger, who organized the club in 1934, is the adviser.

Formula for success!

First row: Peggy Hohn, Sally Weisner, Marian Senn, Mr. William Bush, Constance Frey, Floyd Piper, Roger Allen, Jane Stoffer, Porter Stanford, Helen Gorman, Catherine McKee, Elaine Peterson.

Second row: Norma Benham, Lauroia Walsh, Margaret Stearns, George Aiken, Betty Johnson, Agnes Hovland, Erna Kuck, Robert Huntington, Joan Powers, Margaret Bean, Delle Doty, Ted Kuck, Sally Browne, Marian Dornfeld, Ruth Franklin.

Third row: Frances Solem, Thomas Smith, Eleanor Barrons, Ruth Lewis, Margaret Kvorning, Ellen Sherlock, Robert English, Lucille Varner, Howard Bushnell, Marietta Brandhorst, Virginia St. Sauver, Rita Cruttenden, William Mayer, Ruth Nelson.

Chemistry Club

To enable Central students to obtain a better understanding of modern chemistry, to aid them in performing interesting but difficult experiments which are not held in the class room, and to help those interested to study and report on special phases of chemistry are the three major objectives of the Chemistry Club. Prospective members must have taken or be taking chemistry in senior high school, and the membership is limited to sixty.

At one meeting an egg was cooked by using dry ice. At another meeting scientific articles from the "Science Leaflet" were read. This year members again voted to join the Science Club of America, a national organization for high school chemistry clubs. Another vote showed the club members were in favor of carrying on the meetings by themselves as much as possible. This meant that outside speakers were dispensed with, and students performed the various experiments the club wished to carry out. A sleigh ride in January was the outstanding social event.

Officers for this year are president, Helen Olsen; vice-president, Floyd Piper; secretary, Constance Frey; and treasurer, Roger Allen. Floyd Piper is chairman of the program committee. The food committee is headed by Virginia St. Sauver. Margaret Bean is chairman of the membership committee. Mr. William Bush has guided the club for the past three years.

Diplomacy a watchword!

First row: Earl Getsug, Jeanne Killmer, Herbert Sloane, Allan Orensteen, Jack Marsh, Miss Lou Ella Miles, Albert Schwab, Marietta Brandhorst, Joseph Mindelsohn, Vivienne Fremland, Eilene Bernstein, Eugene Schway.
Second row: Frances Merk, Roslyn Bernstein, Marion Simon, Sally Wiesner, Jean Eberhardt, Frank Neu, Sholom Barron, Bette Hadgin, Meta Deutschlander, Minnette Dietz, Esther Klein, Jean Trantanella.
Third row: Erwin Tomash, Lorraine Horowitz, Alice Bennett, Harry Simmonds, Janet Erickson, Lillian Ulanove, Frances Montgomerie, Jack Sheehan, Ellen Sherlock, Sheva Rosenthal, Val Dora Turner, Marjorie Schuneman, Jeanette Gelin.

International Club

MEMBERS of the International Club are primarily those students at Central who wish to take an active part in discussions on world affairs. To be eligible for membership, a student must have at least a "C" average in history. A short talk on some topic of international importance, and a test on current affairs must also be passed successfully.

At the first meeting on October 12, Mr. James E. Marshall spoke to the new members on "What Central's International Club Can Do To Promote International Goodwill." Members discussed six different party platforms, and their probable effect on international affairs. The Armistice Day Assembly occupied the attention of the students with a real plea for peace being made by members enacting the horrors of war in a play. In January, Myron Lieberman and Allan Orensteen reviewed "It Can't Happen Here" by Sinclair Lewis. Foreign correspondence with young people from more than twenty countries is another club activity. Another enterprise has been that of aiding similar groups who are being organized in other high schools.

Officers for the fall semester were president, Jack Peninger; vice-president, Eugene Schway; secretary, Louise Loevinger; and treasurer, Alice Godfrey. This year's officers are president, Alfred Schwab; vice-president, Alice Godfrey; secretary, Marietta Brandhorst; and treasurer, Jack Marsh. Miss Lou Ella Miles and Miss Lillian Fitch are the advisers.

Love them!

First row: Susan Peterson, Jean Shields, Carol Strane, Ruth MacManigal, Joan Powers, Dorothy Hook, Ruth Lewis, Helen Matteson, Mary Ann Whitacre, Katherine Daltas.
Second row: Adair McKee, Dorothy Anderson, Marie Ludwig, Helen Gorman, Violey May, Jeanette Rice, June Jensen, Rosemary Gaertner, Jean Howatt, Blair Wood.
Third row: Ruth Currier, Clarella Elmquist, Georgia Bobb, Caryl Vermilya, Ruth Schieman, Marjory Klosterman, Eleanor Tracy, Jeanette Gelin, Marion Sandberg, Margaret Marvin.

Girl Reserves

THE Girl Reserves, an organization affiliated with the Y. W. C. A., has a membership of approximately one hundred girls at Central. It endeavors to develop in the girls skill in handicrafts, to promote leadership and character, and to provide social activities. Most of this work is carried on at the Y. W. C. A. on Thursdays, which are known as Hobby Days. Dramatics, archery, and swimming are other activities which the girls may enjoy together on these days.

The Girl Reserves have a splendidly equipped camp at Lake Elmo. In order to raise funds to maintain this camp, known as Grace Dodge Camp, the Girl Reserves have a city-wide doughnut sale each year. Many girls are sent by funds raised by this sale, which this year was held in conjunction with the Girl Scouts. Shirley Shannon, Mary Parker, and Elaine Henderson were in charge of arrangements at Central.

The Twin-City Conference was held at the St. Paul Y. W. C. A. this year. There were about twenty discussion groups on various subjects such as movies, books, and personality. As it was an all day affair, luncheon and tea were served to the girls. A style review, presented by a local department store, was a feature of the meet, and the entire assembly heard a speaker on world affairs. Dancing was the finale of the day's events.

Love their doughnuts!

First row: Janet Johnson, Pearl Sklar, Mary Parker, Carol Strane, Ruth MacManigal, Joan Powers, Dorothy Hook, Ruth Lewis, Frances Sullivan, Helen Isaksen, Lucille Holtman, Bernice Blechinger.
Second row: Alice Unowsky, Jane Leonard, Betty Miles, Cynthia Burgess, Eleanor Johnson, Geraldine Gerenz, Margaret Herbst, Dorothy Mereness, Elizabeth Scheer, Pearl Smith, Helen Jones, Francis Solem, Elizabeth Anderson.
Third row: Mary Lowe, June Barry, Elaine Henderson, Constance McGuire, Loretta Norgaard, Bernice Rossbach, Eleanor Barrons, Virginia St. Sauver, Janis Christenson, Donna Benson, Shirley Hosmer, Vivian McCall, Arthene Hinueber.

Girl Reserves

Badminton, ping-pong, and basketball were played at the sports party during the first semester. Luncheon and dancing completed this program. At Christmas time a group of Central Girl Reserves presented a program for children of deported foreign parents.

During Christmas vacation an all-city skating party was held at the Hippodrome. The girls went in the forenoon, took their lunches, and skated throughout the day.

The Girl Reserve Cabinet consists of the officers, chairmen of committees, and the advisers, Miss Elfie Brodeen and Miss Helen Heck of Central and Mrs. Bradshaw of the Y. W. C. A. They meet the first Monday of the month at the home of one of the Cabinet members, where the business and social activities are discussed. Joan Powers is president; Patty Plank and Dorothy Hook, vice-presidents; Ruth MacManigal, secretary; and Ruth Lewis, treasurer. Committee chairmen are: program, Eleanor Johnson; publicity, Shirley Shannon; social, Mary Parker; service, June Pearson and Virginia Mathers; music, Eleanor Antonson; dramatics, Lois Taylor; membership, Dorothy Hook; sports, Dorothy Mereness; friendship, Gertrude Hellner and Anita Lake. Carol Strane is the Inter-Club member and Helen Osaksen received a Girl Reserve pin for perfect attendance at Hobby Days during the first semester.

First row: Margaret Becker, Eloise Holterhoff, Eleanor Johnson, Frances Bloomfield, Margaret Olson, Miss Mary Bryant, Johanna Vollegraaf.
Second row: Lucille Borsch, Barbara Nelson, Cordelia Swinborne, Jeanette Gelin, Joan Manderfeld, Peggy Sjoselius.
Third row: Dorothy May Peterson, Janet Erickson.

Campfire Girls

WORK, health, and love make up the word "Wohelo", the official greeting of the Kishakaki or Central branch of the Campfire Girls. This organization holds its meetings at the Emporium, the Campfire Girl headquarters.

Meetings are held twice a month. Handicraft arts as a stimulus to beauty are often stressed. Several teas were given this year for various groups, and among these was one for all the Campfire groups in the city high schools. A Mothers' and Daughters' party was an enjoyable social event of the first semester, and a party for unfortunate Mexican children was also given. The girls visited several orphanages as a Thanksgiving project. During the recent floods, Campfire girls sent clothes to stricken areas. Camp Ojiketa on Green Lake was the scene of many delightful weekends in 1936.

Miss Mary Bryant is the sponsor of Central's Campfire Girls, and Miss Eloise Holterhoff is their guardian. Each member works for and receives three ranks, Woodgatherers, Firemaker, and Torch Bearer. Officers for the fall term were, president, Joan Manderfeld; vice-president, Margaret Momsen; secretary, Janet Erickson; and treasurer, Johanna Vollegraaf. Spring term officers were president, Frances Bloomfield; vice-president, Margaret Olson; secretary, Eleanor Johnson; treasurer, Margaret Becker; and scribe, Lucile Booth.

All Central!

First row: Jeanette Gelin, Ruth Lewis, Dorothy Allanson, Lucille Varner, Ruth MacManigal, Elizabeth Briggs, Virginia Hoffstrom.

Second row: Sally Wiesner, Miss Mary Bryant, Lylah Oberg, Theresa McGinnis, Corine Newton, Maxine Thomas.

Third row: Eleanor Jacobson, Marlys Rutscher, Polly Hagmann, Winifred Matters.

Girls' League

IF YOU saw the display of dressed dolls in the library just before Christmas, you appreciated the helpful spirit of the Girls' League. Each year members assist the Santa Claus Club by dressing these dolls.

The Girls' League was founded in 1926 and has grown to be Central's largest organization of girls. It strives "to promote cooperation among the girls in every type of service with the endeavor to develop the finest characters and highest ideals." This year the monthly meetings have been devoted to a study of vocations for young women with speakers employed in various fields. Two social events were the Big Sister party in the fall for new girls at Central and a roller-skating party in April for all members.

Advising the club in the work are Miss Mary Bryant, Miss Mary Doyle, and Miss Dorothy Baumgart. The class representatives on the Girls' League Council are: seniors, Corine Newton and Jeannette Gelin; juniors, Elizabeth Briggs and Dorothy Allanson; sophomores, Eleanor Jacobson and Lylah Oberg. Other members of the council are Ruth Lewis, Virginia Hoffstrom, Ruth MacManigal, Marlys Rutscher, Dorothy Dockmo, Sally Wiesner, and Winifred Matters. The officers are Lucille Varner, president; Maxine Thomas, vice-president; Theresa McGinnis, secretary; and Polly Hagmann, treasurer.

Love to

Glee Club

FORMERLY separated into two separate organizations, boys and girls, the Glee Club now contains a mixed chorus of seventy-two voices. The Glee Club made two appearances in November at the Minnesota Teachers' Association Convention at the St. Paul Auditorium and at an assembly.

On February 18 and 19, Miss Lillian M. Knott, the adviser and director of the Glee Club, and Miss Olive Allen, director of the "Times Revue", combined their organizations to present the "Glee-Times' Follies." Before two large audiences on both nights, the Glee Club presented the operetta, "Once In a Blue Moon." The story was by Gordon Ibbetson, and the music was written by Noble Cain. Dolores Kernkamp was Sylvia Montgomery, the heroine of this comedy. Playing opposite her was Allan Orensteen, playing George Taylor. Dick Martin as Le Mon, the Frenchman, made an admirable villain, and Jack Schmauss as Hop Sing drew frequent laughter and applause from the audience. Joleen Springer proved to be an enchanting Moon Lady. Elsie Hansler and Tony Jackson capably played supporting parts as Sylvia's best friend and an English villain.

For the first semester, the officers were: president, Dwight Marriot; vice-president, Virginia Sault; secretary, Virginia St. Sauver; and treasurer, Robert Thomson.

Sing low!

First row: Thomas Cook, Weston Harmon, Robert Thomson, Dwight Marriott, William Ripley, Charles Debel, Emmett Salzwedel, Miss Lillian Knott, Louis Grossman.

Third row: Jack Schmauss, Frederick Joerns, Robert Grant, Robert Putz, Herbert Krengel, Harold Swanson, Edward Silverman, Earl Clendenon.

Glee Club

Despite the time spent on the operetta, the Glee Club found time to sing at the Faith Lutheran Church, December 18. This semester also found them singing for another church audience, this time one at the Dayton Avenue Presbyterian Church, April 11.

Broadcasting over the National Broadcasting Corporation network on April 4 was the Glee Club's outstanding performance. This broadcast was in conjunction with the convention of the secondary school music teachers of the seven states comprising the North Central Association and was given over KSTP. The convention was held April 4-11 in Minneapolis. The seventy-two members sang "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" by Bach, and "Day Is Dying" by Koshetz. A later spring broadcast over KSTP found the Glee Club singing "From Grief to Glory" arranged by Christiansen, "Light Celestial" by Tschaiakowsky, and "Musical Trust" by Clokey. The assembly given each semester by the Glee Club took place on April 28. The Commencement music will be given by the Glee Club in conjunction with the Central Band and Orchestra.

The president of the Glee Club this semester is William Ripley; vice-president, Judith Mogelson; secretary, Barbara Hatfield; and treasurer, Charles Debel.

I hope this cornered
lots of luck and happiness
for you.

Third row: Dorothy Grawert, Dorothy Jaeger, George Hansler, Janet Hohmann, Max Avrick, Miss Lillian Knott, Ernest Charleston, Florence Gibbs, Russell Heil, Betty Espeland.

The Orchestra

FEW organizations at Central offer its members more practical experience than the orchestra does. Now in its 37th year, the orchestra still maintains its original purpose to give Central students an opportunity to play with others in a group. Practice is held every day during fourth period in room 317. An ensemble with the following personnel has been chosen from the orchestra: first violin, Frances Mertens, Richard Schwartz; second violin, Eleanor Swanson, Lorraine Lang; cellos, Kenneth Johnson, Luella Mailand; bass viol, George Hansler; flute, Frances Solem; piano, Robert Bodsgard.

Previous to this year, the orchestra had been able to purchase a bass viol, a cello, a viola, and a bass drum. With the money earned this year, another cello and possibly another bass viol will be added to the list of instruments owned by the orchestra. The funds for these purchases were created by playing for the operetta, the Glee Club, and by playing at various dinners at the Athletic Club. This group meets once a week to conduct its own business and social affairs. The ensemble played several numbers at the "C" Club banquet in December, and the larger group presented the annual orchestra assembly.

Miss Lillian M. Knott is the musical adviser of the orchestra. Members choose officers once each year. The officers this year are Frances Mertens, president; Herman Straka, vice-president; and Richard Schwartz, secretary-treasurer.

First row: Ruth MacManigal, Virginia Dunn, Bernice Norton, Beverly Nienhaus, Peter Andrews, John Ludwig, Robert Slifer, Alden Bass, Max Avrick, Gordon Rohrbacher, Arthur Valla.
 Second row: Carl Warwick, Tom Morgan, Paul Hanson, Frances Solem, Gretchen Schroeder, Edward Colliton, George Aiken, Douglas Stevenson, Charles Mazey, Warren Wille, Roger Rohrbacher, John Ernst.

 Fifth row: James Lacy, Alvin Kurzeck, Eugene Herrick, Vernon Heyne, Howard Ridgeway, Ernest Charleston, Jerry Sansby.

The Band

NOT all the foot stamping and cheering is done at football and basketball games by the enthusiastic fans, for a goodly share is carried on by the 61 members of the band between toots of "Cheer, Boys, Cheer, for Central Has the Ball" or "Onward Central".

Mr. Franklyn L. Blume, director of the Central High School Band, has done his part in bringing the band before the public. During the Minnesota Educational Convention in January, the band broadcast over station WCCO. Previously, they had broadcast over station WTCN in one of the high school pep-fests sponsored by Maurice L. Rothschild and devoted to St. Paul high schools. Besides these performances over the air, the band played at the School Police Picnic in the fall. School performances included the Band Assembly on January 13 and the annual Band Concert, May 13 to 14. The final appearance of the band each year is at the Commencement exercises, scheduled this year for June 18.

Officers for this year are William Meier, president; Warren Vollhaber, vice-president; Elizabeth Handsaker, secretary, and Ruth MacManigal, treasurer. Business manager is Eugene Peterson, and Tom Morgan is quartermaster. Dorothy Colter is senior drum major, and Elizabeth Handsaker, Ethel Draxton, and Marjorie Ponthon are her assistant baton twirlers.

Actors all!

First row: Jane Stoffer, Miss Marjorie Dornberg, Janet Miller, Jack Stary, Helen Hurley, Harry Nye, Gail Paulsen, Vernon Johnson, Ruth Zaun, Buddy Ornstein.

Dramatic Club

EMBRYONIC Sarah Bernhardts, Otis Skinners, and Robert found an outlet for their talents by becoming members of the active Dramatic Club. The purpose of the organization is to produce plays, help students to express themselves clearly, and to promote interest in good drama. The club has staged an interesting dramatic variety throughout the school through its numerous performances given by the members.

Two radio broadcasts featured the outside activities of the Dramatic Club. The first, on April 3, was a safety skit, written by three students, and enacted over the air by members of the Dramatic Club. The second broadcast took place on April 16th when a one-act play was given. June 2, the Dramatic Club will present a play to the student body at an assembly. A one-act play, "Romeo and Juliet", was also given before members of the International Club.

This year the adviser is Miss Marjorie Dornberg. In honor of Miss Helen Austin, former adviser, the club gave a tea where several members put on humorous skits. Fall officers were president, John Dunlap; vice-president, Helen Hurley; secretary, Janet Miller; and treasurer, Vernon Johnson. The president for the spring semester is Harry Nye; vice-president, Helen Hurley; secretary, Gail Paulsen; and treasurers, Vernon Johnson and Jack Stary.

Staging sets!

Stage Force

Behind the stage! Without the labors of this group of unsung heroes the year's schedule of stage production and assemblies would have been impossible to carry out. With a swish of the curtains and a change of the light, the interior of a beautiful home is reduced to a beach on a desert island or to the deck of a ship.

The manager chooses the members from the boys and girls, considers their requirements and gives the new members intensive training period. A group of capable girls comprise the wardrobe committee who reign supreme over the great realm of objects in the prop room. When costumes are desired for student productions, they mend and press the clothes. These girls are also required to keep the supply of suits, dresses, and hats in order. The entire force, wardrobe committee and stage force, meet on the Tuesday before an assembly to plan lights and fixtures to be used during the production. Not only school organizations such as producers of the "Glee-Times Follies" and the Band Concert, but managers of outside productions have called upon the Stage Force for help.

George Clemens is the manager, and Kenneth Fullerton is the chief electrician of this year's force. Miss Dornberg has recently assumed the duties of directing and advising the group.

Faces! Faces! Faces!

First row: Robert Straka, Dorothy Allanson, Carl Oja, Jane Stoffer, Delle Doty, Miss Grace Mackey, Alfred Schwab, Geraldine Chinnock.
 Second row: Cynthia Burgess, Mary Bohland, Margaret Jean McRae, Frances Urban, Margaret Blegan, Beth Hodgkin, Marguerite Hoffman, Jean McGovern, Hester Jewell.
 Third row: Ann Benjamin, Elizabeth Seiler, Marilyn Hise, Katherine Conroy, Leo Meyer, Kathleen Krebsbach, Leona May Jansen, Celeste Ausman, Bettie Hanson.
 Fourth row: Mary Jo Zuppke, Bernard Anderly, John Strand, Jack Stary, Harold Baldwin, George Clemens, Lucille Varner.

Paint and Patches

VARIOUS greases, powders, and mustaches applied with dextrous motions have made villains and heroes by the score. Would you believe those pirates you so recently saw were students of Central? Well, they are! To Paint and Patches goes the credit for the creation of these terrifying monsters of the "Times Revue".

In the portrayal of character on the stage, correct makeup is essential, and many meetings a year are given to practice of that art by this group. Again this year much hard work was done by the members in preparing stage productions, the most noteworthy being the "Glee-Times' Follies", with the Vergil Class play, the Band Concert, and the Christmas Assembly not far behind.

In the thirteenth year of its existence, the leadership of Paint and Patches has been placed in the hands of Miss Grace Mackey. Members are chosen from the expression classes. Each fall semester the Paints, as the new members are called, are chosen by tryouts and initiated by the Patches or old members. Prospective members must show that they have skill in applying and blending make-up. This year's Big Mask is Mary Bohland, the Little Mask is Betty Pinger, the Keeper of the Daubs is Delle Doty, and the treasurer is Carl Oja.

Second row: Buddy Ornstein, Roy Grohoski, Richard Downey, Ned Axt, James Ennis, Cynthia Burgess, Peter Briggs, Edmund Mellgren.
Third row: Daniel Magraw, Clement Simmer, William Fredell, Paul Greig, David Clemans, Edwin Howey, Allan Ornesteen, Donald Rowell.
Fourth row: Harold Miller, Cedric Scholberberg, Frederick Walters, Donald Roberts, Edward Miller, Frank Daggett, Frederick Mayer, Robert Jackson.

Chess Club

CHESS, one of the oldest games in the world, has many student adherents at Central in the Chess Club, which meets once a month in 209. Members may come in and play any time since boards and chessmen are at their disposal. Some of the boards and chessmen have been in use since 1922, the year the club was first organized. To join the club, a student must pass a test dealing with chess problems.

Formerly the club played outside matches, but this year only club matches have been played. Members have arranged a peg-board tournament this semester. Players are arranged in a certain order, and they may rise in rank upon challenging and defeating a player higher in the rankings. Highest were George Quick, Robert Putz, David Clarren, Leo Fox, and John Watson. These tournament matches usually take only fifteen or twenty minutes; hence challenges and changes in position are frequent. Another change this year has been the elimination of checker tournaments.

The officers were for the first term, president, Anton Sletner; vice-president, Sholom Barron; secretary, Jane Stoffer; and treasurer, Robert Putz. The president this year is Jack Kennedy; vice-president, Sholom Barron; secretary, Helen Jones; and treasurer, Robert Putz. The adviser is Mr. Robert Brockman.

Central Hi-Y

THE oldest Hi-Y club at Central, the Central Hi-Y, was organized in 1920. This club desires for its members boys who are athletically proficient in addition to the requirement that they possess good qualities of character. The club meets once a week at the Y. M. C. A., and has for its adviser Frederick Shoemaker, a "Y" secretary.

During the period from September, 1936, on through June, 1937, the club was very active. Some of the speakers at meetings included Mr. Playford Reed, Central teacher, who discussed "Education, first; athletics, second". Mr. Parker Jordan also spoke on safety. On November 6, 1936, the Central Hi-Y and the Mid-Central Hi-Y collaborated to hold a Red and Black dance. In addition to that, the club has held two splash parties in the "Y" pool. The club co-operated with other Hi-Y organizations to make the All-City Hi-Y Day a success. Perhaps the biggest project of the year has been the Safety Drive in which the Central Hi-Y took an intense interest. To make the boys safety conscious, tests were given to them in safe driving. In the spring in the school auditorium a safety assembly was staged. The club also had a spring outing. Another social event on the Central Hi-Y program is its annual commencement dance in June.

Officers the past year have been Robert Effinger, president; Dean Ponthon, vice-president; Bernard Anderly, secretary; and Leonard Lampert, treasurer.

'Mid the Y's men!

First row: Donald Seel, George Brandt, Walter Hansen, Donald Williams, Floyd Piper, Ted Scott, Kenneth Fullerton, Thomas Cook.

Mid Central Hi-Y

ANY boy at Central is eligible to join the Mid-Central Hi-Y, which is now in its fourth year, provided the club's membership is not too large. The regular meetings take place at the Midway Branch of the Y. M. C. A. This year the boys have had several opportunities to hear educational speakers. Mr. Milton Hahn spoke on vocations at the first meeting in October. A later speaker was Reverend Charles Smith, minister of Olivet Congregational Church. Social activities included a dance at a downtown hotel in the fall, a spring dance on March 20, and a barn dance early in May. Several bean feeds were held before regular meetings, and a splash party was held early in April. The Mid-Central Hi-Y helped to promote the All-City Hi-Y Day on March 26.

Every year members of the Mid-Central Hi-Y adopt some plan or project whereby they may better the school. This year they participated in the All-Hi-Y safety drive. Movies stressing safety were shown at club meetings and at school. The Hi-Y boys also provided mirrors for the boys' lavatories throughout the school as a project of particular benefit to Central.

Officers for the fall semester were, president, George Brandt; vice-president, Jack Rule; secretary, Charles Hammond; and treasurer, Donald Williams. Until next fall officers will be Donald Williams, president; Walter Hanson, vice-president; Floyd Piper, secretary; and Ted Scott, treasurer. Alfred Johnson is the adviser.

Today I am a man!

First row: Robert Patterson, Robert Lawrence, James Craig, Edward Colliton, Robert Janssen, Clark Rice.
Second row: Charles Boyles, Clifford Bohmbach, Daniel Drommerhausen, Daniel Magraw, Arthur Cummings, James Brack, Ralph Smith.
Third row: Gene Bolke, William McLain, Maurice Heidbrink.

The Tri-Hi-Y

ONE of Central's newest clubs, the Tri-Hi-Y, has as its purpose "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

At Christmas and Thanksgiving, the members of the club distributed several baskets to the poor and needy. The club also took an important part in the safety campaign, furnishing posters and other publicity material for the drive. Speakers, who are chosen for their broadening outlook, included Mr. James Herbert, well-known traveler, and Mr. Milton Hahn, Central teacher who is interested in vocational guidance. Social activities were a sleigh ride party on February 19 and a splash party on April 10. Members have their own bowling club, with James Craig holding first place at the initial meeting. The club also participates in the All-Hi-Y council at Central.

The first semester's officers were Robert Lawrence, president; Clifford Bohmbach, vice-president; James Brack, secretary; and Daniel McGraw, treasurer. For this semester, Edward Colliton is president; James Craig, vice-president; Robert Janssen, secretary; and Robert Lawrence, treasurer. Edward Colliton and Clifford Bohmbach were the sergeants-at-arms. Daniel McGraw and Robert Lawrence headed the committees for the splash party and the dance. The adviser to the club since its organization has been George Bryant.

We of the affirmative

First row: Harding Ornstein, Mr. Frederick Miller, William Watson, Neil Sherburne, James Ennis, Ned Axt, Joseph Friedmann, Harry Simmonds, Guy Prescott.
Second row: James Thompson, Robert Earley, Richard Kennedy, Robert Jackson, Robert Thomson, Harry Munson, Andrew Riese, Ted Buehring, Eugene Schway.
Third row: William Towner, William Fredell, Harold Miller, William Ripley, Leslie Helmes, Jack Schmauss, George Murphy, Frederick Mayer, Jack Schultz.

Debate Club

THE newest club at Central is the Debate Club, organized February 19 of this year. Scholarship and willingness to take part in debates were the only requisites for membership for all but twelve members who were admitted as a result of their activities in organizing the club. Next year it is likely prospective members will have to prove a question before being admitted.

The first question debated this year was, Resolved: that boys and girls should be allowed to sit where they please in the lunchroom. A debate upon the advisability of caps and gowns at graduation will be held before commencement. If possible, a question of interest to the entire student body will be debated at an assembly. Debates with teams from other schools will be held next fall if arrangements can not be made this spring.

The officers of the Debate Club are, president, James Ennis; vice-president, Ned Axt; secretary, Neil Sherburne; and treasurer, William Watson. The constitution committee consisted of Robert Putz, John Yarcho, and Richard Kennedy. The charter members are James Ennis, William Emeny, Robert Jackson, Richard Kennedy, James Olsen, Leslie Helmes, Robert Earley, Robert Goswitz, Robert Thomson, John Yarcho, William Fredell, William Marbell, George Murphy, and Gerald Nyberg. A later meeting increased the membership to thirty-five. Mr. Frederick C. Miller was chosen as adviser.

Position! Lunge!

First row: Robert Janssen, Mr. J. J. Sexton, Howard Aamodt, Kent Spaulding, Ned Axt, Joseph Mindrum, Allan Orensteen.
Second row: Norman Zats, James Ennis, Bill Fredell, John Neiger, Robert Eberhardt, Richard Kennedy, Irving Neiger.
Third row: Dean Arnold, Donald Roberts, George Kryjeski, Harry Speakes, Bryce Clark, Ralph Jackson, Wesley Carson.
Fourth row: Joseph Friedmann, John Watson, Earle Dunn, Earl Mahle, Robert Stone, Herbert Krengel, John Elston, Edgar Kolstad.

Guardsmen

To accommodate the increased interest in fencing, thirty boys organized the Guardsmen last spring. It holds membership in the Minnesota League of Fencers and won the Minnesota state high school team championship in the fall of 1936. Members won four out of the first five places in the Northwestern Gymnastic and Fencing Meet of 1937. Members meet every Wednesday to study and learn the art of fencing under the direction of Mr. Ferdinand Ubel. Each boy practices using his own foils, but five masks owned by the club are passed around to allow everyone a chance to use them.

The team comprises the best fencers in the club, Kent Spaulding, Robert Eberhardt, Bryce Clark, Howard Aamodt, Dean Arnold, George Kryjeske, and Herbert Krengel. Any member in the club is eligible for the team, but he must be able to defeat a member now on the team.

The club allows students to join once each semester. For the fall term the officers were president, Kent Spaulding; vice-president, Bryce Clark; secretary, Allan Orensteen; and treasurer, John Nieger. This semester the group selected for president, Kent Spaulding; vice-president, Ned Axt; secretary, Howard Aamodt; and treasurer, Joseph Mindrum. Mr. J. J. Sexton is the adviser.

Thrust! Retreat!

First row: Miss Marie Baumgartner, Sally Browne, Loretta LeMaster, Margaret Becker, Corine Newton, Constance Frey, Peggy Hohn, Shirley Christians, Joyce Johnson, Elaine Henderson.
Third row: Margaret Thorsen, Dorothy Cotter, Elizabeth Handsaker, Jean Morris, Eileen Jones, Margaret Blegen, Jeannette Dewars, Alice O'Neill, Betty Madsen.

Masque and Foils

2UICKNESS of eye, speed of thought, and swiftness of muscle are some of the fundamentals of fencing being developed by members of Masque and Foils, the girls' fencing club at Central. The members have been meeting every Friday since the organization of Masque and Foils in January. Mr. Ferdinand Ubel, the instructor at these meetings, is assisted by Bryce Clark, a Central student.

Poise, balance, and good sportsmanship are some of the physical and mental qualities Masque and Foils members hope to gain by fencing. As most of the girls are still in the novice class, matches have been inter-club ones this year with one exception, a match at St. Thomas College. Central girls who attended were Betty Crogan, Constance Frey, Dorothy Sadler, Dorothy Cotter, Helen Busch, Ruth Muggenburg, Corine Newton, and Marjorie Schunemann. Girls may practice at Newell Park Saturday mornings if they wish to improve their technique.

The officers of the club are president, Corine Newton; vice-president, Constance Frey; secretary, Peggy Hohn; and treasurer, Margaret Becker. The constitution committee was headed by Shirley Christians, assisted by Constance Frey, Lucille Varner, Betty Steiger, and Marion Supornick. Miss Marie Baumgartner is the adviser.

What's yours?

First row: Donna Hipp, Annette Kutil, Joleen Springer, David Peilen, Betsy Handsaker, James Brack, Barbara Samuelson, Ted Buehring, Ann Benjamin, Rosemarie Callahan, Marguerite Hoffman.
Second row: Sally Browne, Loretta LeMaster, Jean Howatt, Lucy McGinnis, Henry Edelstein, Lyle Vernon, Marvin Fineberg, Nancy Clements, Marie Reithmeier, Frances Urban, Gladys Meyer.
Third row: Elaine McMahon, Dorothy D. Mitchell, Rachel Mutch, Frances Pierce, Sholom Barron, Mary Jane Smith, Leo Meyer, Lois Lyden, Marion Kohlsaat, Harriet Jones, Marion Meacham.
Fourth row: Harold Devine, Edgar Jenkin, Jack Kennedy, Warren Kress, Robert Putz, Joseph Mogelson, Gerard Bloch, Ned Axt, Joseph Joyce, Norman Kaye.

Hobby Club

COLLECTIONS as different as the people who have them are on display at meetings of the Hobby Club. Singers, souvenir hunters, match box collectors, and magicians are all represented in this group. Some of the collections include autographs, wood carvings, coins, guns, butterflies, and pens.

When students are not exhibiting various collections, outside speakers entertain the club. Mr. Playford Reed spoke on his collection of guns at an early meeting. Mr. Arthur D. White, the adviser of the club and member of the Northwest Coin Club, gave a talk on relics. The use and value of hobbies was the subject of a talk given by Mr. James E. Marshall, the principal. An amateur magician, Mr. Lyman Johnson, spoke to the club in April. He was followed by Prof. Theodore Blegen of the University of Minnesota. In January the forty members went to the Historical Society Museum where interesting relics from pioneer life in Minnesota are displayed.

A new constitution went into effect this year as the fall term's officers were elected. These officers were president, Ned Axt; vice-president, Frances Urban; secretary, Joleen Springer; and treasurer, Joel Johnson. Officers of the spring semester are president, James Brack; vice-president, Barbara Samuelson; secretary, Elizabeth Handsaker; and treasurer, Ted Buehring. The membership is approximately forty, and meetings are held twice a month.

Down our alley!

First row: Mr. J. J. Sexton, James Sullivan, Whitney Countryman, James Brack, Frederick Coates, Charles Gaskell.
Second row: Robert Skipton, Charles Hammond, John Yarcho, Pierce Atwater, James Monkman, Richard Heddy, Thomas Hope.
Third row: Walter Hansen, Jack Schmauss, Harry Speakes, Bryce Clark, Russell Jensen, Robert Thomson.
Fourth row: Joseph Friedmann, Floyd Piper, William Rose, Karl Dedolph, Robert Stone, David Beatson.

Bowling Club

TOPPLING the maples every Saturday morning for the school, for their teams, or for themselves, the members of the Bowling Club are active from October to May. The club, organized a year ago by a group of students, has been busy ever since with tournaments, intra-mural matches, and inter-school contests.

A club tournament in February equalizing all of the bowlers by a maximum 25 pin handicap ended with John Yarcho collecting enough strikes and spares to lead the field. Earlier in the season, James Monkman's intra-mural team led those of Richard McMillan, Frank Countryman, and Vernon Wollan. Throughout the year in spite of the lack of a definite schedule, occasional matches with other city high schools were played with Central breaking even. Richard McMillan, David Beatson, and Vernon Wollan were the most consistent high bowlers, each of them averaging over 170. Revenge for past extra homework and an excuse for more of the same in the future was the result when members of the club defeated the faculty in the annual student-faculty match.

Officers of the club during the first term were Frank Countryman, president; Charles Gaskell, vice-president; Karl Dedolph, secretary; and James Monkman, treasurer. The spring semester saw Frank Countryman re-elected president; James Brack, vice-president; James Sullivan, secretary; and Fred Coates, treasurer. Mr. Jerald Sexton is the adviser.

Stampin' at Central

First row: Herbert Sloane, Jeanne Killmer, Gerard Bloch, Robert Spielman, Marjorie Schuneman, Eugene Schway, Jerome Singer.
Second row: Paul Hanson, Marvin Fineberg, Robert Ginsberg, Katherine Krantz, Henry Edelstein, David Perlin, Harry Simmonds.
Third row: Melvin Schumeister, Marion Harris, Arthur Schelin, Jack Sheehan, Elizabeth Hauser, Albert Schwabe, Carl Warwick, Shirley Wolf, Joseph Joyce.
Fourth row: Edward Schmidt, Jack Peninger, Warren Kress, Howard Schoonover, Kenneth Born, Paul Greig, Calvin Lerman.

Stamp Club

DETECTING forgeries, fake cancels, counterfeits, and similar catches for the unwary collector were some of the topics chosen by speakers at Stamp Club meetings this year. Meetings, which are held twice a month, also give members opportunities to compare collections and make exchanges of mutual benefit.

Professor Downey, Latin teacher at Macalester College, exhibited a valuable and interesting collection at one of the meetings. Mr. Donald Wallace, member of the WTCN staff, spoke to the club twice on detecting forgeries. The four meetings beginning with March 29 were devoted to conducting the contest for members of the Stamp Club. This contest was divided into the following sections: identification of twenty-five stamps, locations of certain countries, a true and false test, and a general test on foreign and United States' stamps and definitions. Robert Spielman, president of the club and originator of the contest, will make the awards at one of the last meetings in May. The club donated two stamp magazine subscriptions to the library this term.

The fall term officers were president, Robert Spielman; vice-president, Herbert Sloane; secretary, Marjorie Schunemann; and treasurer, Jeanne Killmer. This semester the president is Robert Spielman; vice-president, Gerard Bloch; secretary, Marjorie Schunemann; and treasurer, Eugene Schway. Mr. Clarence Eastman has been the adviser for the past three years.

Candid the word!

First row: Mr. Clarence Eastman, Clifford Molzahn, Helmer Johnson, Neil Utberg, John Bartley, Arthur Zwioner.
Second row: James Fillmore, Howard Toenniges, Clayton Anderson, Frederick Joerns, Howard Quiggle, Allan Orensteen.
Third row: Carl Swenson, Bernard Jasinski, Henry Teipel, John Watson.

Camera Club

LED by Helmer Johnson and Frederick Joerns, an organization of student photographers was formed among boys who are interested in increasing their technical knowledge of both developing and taking pictures. This group is the Camera Club. Developing, printing, and enlarging are done by members at meetings when there are no speakers on the program. Photographic work is carried on in the dark room behind the physics laboratory. This dark room is excellent for the developing of such sensitive plates as panchromatic ones. Plans are under way for the establishment of an enlarging machine in the dark room.

Plans were made for three trips to gain a more varied knowledge of photography. A hike to the studios of different commercial photographers to inspect the equipment was taken. The 109th Squadron's aerial cameras at Holman Airport were objects of special interest when the members went there this spring. The club heard speakers on aerial, color, and nature photography and also listened to newspaper and commercial photographers. Meetings are held the first and third Monday of each month in the physics laboratory.

Membership is limited to fifteen boys whose adviser is Mr. Clarence Eastman. The terms of office are one year. Officers this year are president, Helmer Johnson; vice-president, Clifford Molzahn; secretary, Frederick Joerns; and Howard Quiggle, treasurer.

Second row: Jane Kennedy, Sally Browne, Sholom Barron, Marion Dornfeld, Lucille Varner, Norma Nilsen, Albert Schwab, Ruth Lewis, Hester Jewell.

"Cehisean"

STRESSING the informal tone of the book, the staff of the 1937 "Cehisean" worked from November, 1936, to late May this year. Among the newer features of this year's Central High School Senior Annual are the more informal faculty section, the increased use of snapshots, the novel sports section with more action shots, and the revised album section.

Sophomores and juniors again received their share of attention in the record of the school year. These two classes had separate picture sections besides larger class writeups.

As usual, the class adviser and Miss Florence Vest, literary adviser of the annual, collaborated to choose the editor-in-chief and the associate editor. James Monkman was their selection for editor-in-chief, and Mary Ellen Simpson was chosen associate editor. These two, with the help of the adviser, chose heads for the various editorial departments. After careful study of the qualifications of those who wished to work on the annual, the following were selected: activities editor, Myron Lieberman; album editor, Polly Hagmann; class editor, Gordon Rood; faculty editor, Janet Miller; boys' sport editor, Robert Dougan; girls' sport editor, Elaine LaPointe; school life editor, Virginia Hoffstrom; snapshot editor, Helen Hurley; and photographers, Thomas Hope and William Gage. Miss Minette Paro, art adviser, chose Jane Rowe as art editor.

this annually!

First row: Susan Peterson, Theresa McGinnis, Charles Sewrey, Helen Hurley, Thomas Hope, Virginia Hoffstrom, George Clemens, Elaine LaPointe, Howard Schoonover.
Second row: Mary Parker, Margaret Blegen, Joan Powers, Robert Dougan, Marian Supornick, William Gage, Helen Gorman, Phyllis Farrell, Gail Paulsen.
Third row: Marian Senn, Bernard Anderly, Eleanor Johnson, Kenneth Wujek, Vivian Weaver, Harold Baldwin, Betty Bohlig.
Fourth row: Harry Simmonds, George Brandt, James Meier, Mary Kipp, Dorothy K. Olson, Albert Moorman, Neil Litman, Thomas Caufield.

"Cehisean"

This year's art staff played an important note in emphasizing the informal accents of the "Cehisean". Cartoons, division pages, and special art features occupied the staff for several months. Jane Rowe was art editor, assisted by Susan Peterson, Helen Gorman, Virginia Hoffstrom, and Kenneth Wujek. Some help in the layout work was given by the art staff and Miss Minette Paro, art adviser.

Central's yearbook is especially unique this year in that it uses Kaufmann script, a new kind of type that has been highly praised by printers as ideal for high school annuals. This type was used for the first eight pages and for the division pages.

The task of making the "Cehisean" a financial success was again intrusted to a student business staff, advised by Miss Helen Hagin. The fact that the editorial staff could not make certain changes without adequate funds spurred the business staff on to successfully financing the "Cehisean". Other duties of the business staff include printing, typing, and making the picture schedule. Tom Hope headed the business staff, and Howard Schoonover was advertising manager. Circulation was in charge of George Clemens and Charles Sewrey, with Marion Supornick heading the typists assisted by Phyllis Farrell, Betty Sjoberg, Dorothy Wagner, Mary Parker and Vivian Weaver.

Good circulation!

First row: Peggy Hohn, Marcus Hertz, Ruth Zaun, Richard Kennedy, Catherine Conroy, Forrest Poppe, Marian Senn, Eugene Schway, Frances Solem, Edwin Hovey.
Second row: Ruth Lind, Frances Schwied, Dorothy Allanson, Ellen Levy, Helen Grama, Hester Jewel, Dorothy Holden, Lauroia Walsh, Donna Hipp, Melvin Belinsky.
Third row: Genevieve Christgau, Alfred Morgan, Beverly Fisher, Allan Orensteen, Arthene Hinueber, Herbert Sloane, Donald Baker, Barbara Hatfield, Arnold Frishberg, Howard Bushnell.
Fourth row: Dorothea Elsner, Donald Roberts, Richard Cashman, Earl Mahle, Donald Hovelsrud, Philip Huebener, Robert Snow, Virginia Pickett.

"Cehisean"

Under Miss Helen Hagin, the business adviser, the business staff set an all-time high for "Cehisean" subscriptions. Over 1700 Centralites, at least 150 more than had purchased any previous annual, placed their subscriptions with the circulation managers, George Clemens and Charles Sewrey.

Following the plan inaugurated by last year's business staff, the subscriptions were first placed with representatives in each home-room. This year, for the first time, agents who were able to obtain a one hundred percent subscription from their home-rooms were rewarded with a free "Cehisean". Agents able to obtain subscriptions from three-fifths of the class were given a place in the "Cehisean" picture. The success of this plan is indicated by the fact that more subscriptions were received this year than ever before although enrollment has been higher in previous years.

The art staff was again instrumental in advertising the "Cehisean". Novel pictures with appropriate slogans were placed in nearly every room. The hallways on every floor were also decorated with original pleas to "Buy the 'Cehisean'." This is just one instance where different staffs on the "Cehisean" worked together to produce a bigger and better record of the school year as embodied in the annual.

Just in case you're curious about who planned this Central High SENior ANnual, we'll let you peek—but not through a key-hole!

Too busy even to look up for the photographer, Jim Monkman, editor-in-chief, figures out how to make other people work, while Mary Ellen Simpson, diminutive associate editor, ruthlessly blue-pencils a portion of somebody's brain child. Jane Rowe, art editor, exhibits some nifty illustrations, but Tom Hope takes time out from his job of business manager to "smile pretty" for the photographer. Howard Schoonover, advertising head, seriously bends himself to the task of planning attractive ads, while George Clemens, that busy man, balances the phone receiver between his ear and shoulder to give him a free hand to enter subscriptions in his job as circulation manager. Worrying about the whole bunch of us are our capable advisers, Miss Minette Paro, art, Miss Helen Hagin, business, and Miss Florence Vest, editorial.

"Glee-Times' Follies"

Top to bottom—While Dick Martin and Beverly Burnett blend their voices in a love song, Pierce Atwater, Doris Haskins, and Jack Shimek congratulate each other. The colorful Spanish dancers pose, but a couple of tweed-coated photographers sneaked into the background. Jackson and Martin steal the jewels and the spotlight.

After five weeks of strenuous rehearsals under Miss Lillian Knott, director of the Glee Club, and Miss Olive Allen, "Times' Revue" head, the members of the "Glee-Times' Follies" put on two four-hour performances to packed houses February 18 and 19, 1937. Formerly the "Times Revue" and the Operetta were separate performances.

Featuring Allan Orensteen, Delores Kernkamp, Judith Mogelson, Joleen Springer, and the Glee Club chorus, "Once in a Blue Moon" was enthusiastically received. Scenery designed by the art department added much to the beauty of the production.

Master of ceremonies Pierce Atwater, all dressed up an' goin' places, introduced the acts of the "Times' Revue", outstanding of which were Virginia Hoffstrom's caricatures, the roller skating trio of Kenneth Wujek, Paul Kelly, and Paul Gauthier, members by Lee Harris, Marion Levitan, Thornton Dennis, and Charles Walters, and the rhythm-mad drumming of Ernest Charleston. A burlesque operetta, "Pirate Island", was a fitting finale with Bernard Anderly, Herschel Caplan, Catherine Dean, Vivian Affalter, and Albert Schwabe drawing most of the laughs. Sixteen pirates in costume led by executioner Lewis May roamed boldly across the stage.

Jack Shimek and Doris Haskins headed the business end of the show, a large profit testifying to their abilities in this respect.

"Glee-Times' Follies"

Ernie Charleston stops the show with his white hot drumming. Jack Schmauss sings to Delores Kernkamp. Ferocious Pirate King Anderly and his crew. Jean Graff taps her way to fame. Kelley, Gauthier, and Wujek make us dizzy.

Band concert

(Below) Getting ready back stage; Ethel Draxten and Betsy Handsaker give a military salute; Master of Ceremonies, Bernard Anderly furnishes the patter.

Amateurs performing with the skill of professionals and a swing band rivaling Benny Goodman combined in one of the highlights of the year, the eleventh annual Band Concert on Thursday and Friday, May 13 and 14.

Marches, solos, rhapsodies, and an old-fashioned trombone smear featured the band concert which comprised the first half of the program. Howard Ridgeway played a tuba solo entitled "Pomposo", and Dorothy Cotter, Elizabeth Handsaker, Ethel Draxten, and Marjorie Ponthon, drummajors, put on an expert exhibition of baton twirling.

"Good-Bye Blues", theme song of the stage show, introduced fourteen acts of singing, dancing, and variety numbers. Marion Coskran, Grace Stubbs, and Richard Martin were featured singers, with the orchestra supplying accompaniment and swingy rhythms. The haunting melody, "Swampfire", was a big favorite with the crowd.

Jeanne Graff, Adelaide Sykes, Orella Hartman, and Rae Roby tapped their way to a big ovation in their respective acts. A boys' trio, a girls' trio, and Jack Schmauss and Robert Thomson, hill billies, singing "The Martins and the Coys", added the finishing touch to the 1937 exhibition of Central's talent.

Loyalty, courage, physical and moral strength, and all of the admirable qualities of true manhood and womanhood are embodied in high school athletics. Whether we ourselves strive for supremacy for the glory of the school or cheer our warriors on from the sidelines, we can't help absorbing the spirit of sportsmanship and the fierce joy of conflict ever present. We therefore devote our closing section to our athletes.

Fighting

Around five returning lettermen led by Captain Nankivell and a group of fine reserves, Coach Playford Reed built his first Central grid-iron team. Their only conference loss was suffered at the hands of Washington, 6 to 0.

The Red and Black assured themselves of a successful season by pounding their arch-rivals, Mechanics, into submission. The gridgers won over Humboldt by the slim margin of a field goal by Bud Medaris. Before a record crowd Central met Harding for the championship, but the Maroon warriors caught the Minutemen off balance to push across two scores in six minutes. Fighting hard, Central came back to play their best game of the year to tie it up at the gun, leaving the Red and Black in third place with Harding copping the championship.

All-City representatives from Central were Howard Ridgeway and Neil Litman. Jack Rule and Charles Morscheck made the second team.

Donald Williams and Robert Novotny were elected co-captains for the 1937 football season.

In the 1936-1937 season, the Central basketball team was coached by Playford W. Reed for the first time. The Red and Black had a fairly successful season under their new coach, finishing third in the city conference race.

Central started out with a fighting team defeating River Falls 27 to 16. Co-Captain Howard Ridgeway, hurt during that game, was unable to play the rest of the season. Johnson, their first conference opponent, fell before the Minutemen 24 to 20. Then Central had a slump becoming victims of Harding 18 to 32, Humboldt 27 to 40, Washington 18 to 22, but they recovered to defeat Mechanic Arts 18 to 16.

The second half of the season started minus the services of Co-Captain Bob Nankivell. Although Central lost to Johnson 15 to 20, it regained its bearing to defeat South St. Paul 33 to 28. In the thriller of the season Central nosed out Harding 30 to 29 in an overtime period. At the hands of the fast breaking Humboldt team, they suffered another defeat 26 to 35. The boys trimmed Washington 27 to 16 and Mechanic Arts 26 to 16, to place third in the city conference. In the Twin-City game a fast South team eked out a win over Central 19 to 14, thus spelling the end of Coach Reed's first season.

Under the direction of Coach R. D. Berg the Red and Black tankers captured for the twelfth consecutive season the city title. Central outclassed its competitors, taking $59\frac{1}{2}$ points out of 156. Captained by Judd Mulally, breaststroke artist, the team won all of its conference meets with a total of 303 points to 146.

Outside the conference Central defeated University High but met narrow reverses at the hands of West and Blake. Team representatives gave Central third place in the annual Gustavus Adolphus invitational meet and sixth in the state meet at Virginia, Minn.

The water polo team also won all of its games. Outstanding in action were George Brandt, Judd Mulally, and James Monkman, each chosen on the All-City team.

CENTRAL'S tennis team of 1936, coached by Mr. John Harp and captained by Myron Lieberman, had a very successful season. The Minutemen marched right along to capture city, state, and northwest titles. This success is mainly attributable to the splendid work of Myron Lieberman, who won the Northwestern singles and teamed with Louis Soukop to go into the semi-finals of the N. W. meet. With a well balanced team Central won all of its dual matches in the city conference, and continued the unbroken line of city championships.

Track

CENTRAL'S 1936 track men completed their most successful season in recent years by overwhelming Johnson, their nearest opponent in the city meet, by a score of 71 to 53½. Led by Captain Ferris Booth, the team, a dark horse at the beginning of the season, improved to down their opponents readily. Edward Hoffman, Gerald Hensler, Ransom Goins, and Richard McMillan captured Central's four first places, while six seconds and five-thirds were gathered by their teammates. Edward Hoffman was high point man for Central in the city meet by copping 13 points.

Golf Squad

LED by Captain Dean Larsen and coached for the sixteenth consecutive year by R. D. Berg, the Central Golf squad worked itself into second place in the city conference standings. Marring a perfect record was a $11\frac{1}{2}$ to $6\frac{1}{2}$ defeat by Johnson and 9 to 9 tie with Mechanics. Individual stars were Larsen and Lloyd Berquist in defeating White Bear, South St. Paul, and University High. The team lost its third annual faculty varsity meet to the teachers.

In the National Junior Golf Tournament held in St. Paul last year, Dean Larsen defeated a brilliant field to win a well deserved championship. This season Lloyd Berquist and Spero Daltas are returning to bolster up the team's chances.

Gym Team

COACHED by Frank Galles, Central's 1936-37 gym team completed its season successfully by taking the city title away from Johnson High.

Captain William Arndt, high point man, led the Minutemen to victory by taking 551 points. He was closely followed by Rolland Appleton and Rolland Hoke. Johnson, 1935-36 champions, entered only one man in this season's meet and became automatically ineligible for team championship. Central's nearest competition was Mechanics, scoring a total of 4098 points to the Minutemen's 4253.

Heretofore, gym has been a minor sport in St. Paul athletics. Mr. W. W. Kilbourne, in charge of the gymnastic program, announced that there would be a new schedule of dual meets between the city high schools next year. This will make it one of the secondary sports at Central, thus putting it on a par with swimming, track, basketball, and tennis.

Intra-Mural Sports - Basketball

*A*T Central there are more than half of the boys who actually compete in intra-mural athletics, for they are very enthusiastic about the intra-mural program.

Closing an unusually close intramural season the Cagers of the Senior League and the Dead Eyes of the Sophomore League walked off with the crowns in their respective leagues. Led by Clifford Hassie and Michael Korman, the Cagers came through with their second straight championship. After a three-way tie for the lead at the end of the season, the Dead Eyes, led by Albert Schwartz and Leo Neidorf, won the playoff and were crowned Sophomore champs. Those receiving medals in the Senior League were Clifford Hassie, Michael Korman, Dean Ponthon, John Howe, LeRoy Murphy, James McKenzie, Kenneth Holmgren, and Robert Effinger. Members of the Dead Eyes were Albert Schwartz, Leo Mogol, Leo Neidorf, Robert Leo, Norman Kozberg, Jack Rosenfeld, Jerome Jahnke, Sam Latzer.

Kittenball - Hockey

THE 1936 kittenball league was won by the Mac Ko's headed by Jim MacKenzie, closely followed by the Trojans with four wins to the winners' five. The winners were Clifford Hassie, Todd Morehead, Jim Griffin, Michael Korman, James MacKenzie, James Jamar, Pete Lamb, Clarence Johnson, Paul Kinsella, and James McCaffery.

After numerous upsets that saw the Rubber Shaggers, and Skunk Hollowers fall by the wayside, the Rubber Goosers, led by John Francis and Andy Mickles, copped the league honors. In the championship game at the auditorium the new champs defeated the former champs, the Rubber Shaggers, by a 3-1 score. The Goosers established themselves as the outstanding team of the year by going through their entire schedule undefeated and untied. Players receiving medals were John Francis, James MacKenzie, David Beatson, Lloyd Berquist, Victor Michels, Andrew Michels, Richard Barker, Albert Roehl, Charles Morscheck, and Harold Fritzam. Girls' "C" Club

THE Girls' "C" Club began in 1909 when the girls active in sports that year had an informal luncheon. In the following years the luncheon for girls interested in athletics became an annual affair. In 1927 the club was organized at a formal banquet, and thirteen "C's" were awarded. With the Women's City Club as its meeting place, the organization now holds an annual card party, business meeting, and banquet. The present officers are Helen Nicol, president; Sylvia Smolik, vice-president; Ruth Marino, secretary; and Ruth Alice Smith, treasurer.

Fifty-seven girls having the necessary 750 points received their "C's" at the banquet this spring. This is the largest number in the history of the club.

One must earn 1250 points to receive the highest award, an All-City badge. Twenty-four girls are qualified this year.

The Executive Board

THE Executive Board which governs the Girls' Athletic Association is composed of the officers together with various sport heads. At the annual election held in May the G. A. A. members choose this group from the list of nominees, two for each office, submitted by the previous board.

The board meets with Miss Ryan on the first and third Tuesdays of each month to discuss the problems of the organization. The heads of the major sports, fieldball, basketball, tumbling, volleyball, kittenball, and tennis, take charge of the tryouts and official class games. The minor sports are under the charge of persons who record the hours each girl has spent in a sport, and her points are transferred to the girl's card by the recording secretary. Notices, announcements, and news are attended to by the publicity chairman and the girls' sports editor for the "Times".

Due to the growth of G. A. A. and the broadening of the field of activities, the board now has twenty members, each receiving twenty-five points toward her award.

Referees

THE whistle blows, girls scamper for their places for roll call, and the referee prepares to check for absentees and excuses. At the opening of each semester, Miss Ryan selects certain girls who have previously signed up to aid her in carrying on the gymnasium work. These girls assist her one period each week, taking roll call, refereeing games, and taking part in the class work when necessary.

These students' assistants must attend the weekly meeting held eighth period on Thursdays. Here the girls receive instructions and are given tests and actually referee games. This semester major rule changes in basketball, new volleyball rules, and the tap and folk dances which are being prepared for the Physical Education Demonstration received particular attention.

Basketball

A WHISTLE shrieks, the ball is tossed to one of the forwards by the referee, and the game is on! Every girl is up on her toes and doing her best.

G. A. A. classes are held during fourth through seventh periods on Friday and second period on Monday. Basketball starts in November and continues until January. Using a floor one-half the size of a regulation basketball floor, it is divided into two halves, and in each half are the forwards of one team and the guards of the opposing team. A special basketball coach class for those interested was conducted this year by Miss Lois Beyer.

After the tryouts, directed by Elaine LaPointe, basketball head, the official games were held with the fast-moving seniors edging out the juniors 32-22 and swamping the sophomores 23-6. The members of this invincible team have swept a victorious path through the G. A. A. records being champions in their sophomore, junior, and senior years. Captained by Bernita Schreiner, they are Betty Scheer, Doris Ovrum, Elaine LaPointe, Gertrude Block, Polly Haggmann, Doris Haskins, and Margaret Becker.

Fieldball

EVERYBODY enjoys an exciting game of fieldball, a sport which starts the fall season of G. A. A. Based on the outdoor game of soccer, the ball is thrown instead of kicked. A team is composed of five forwards, three halfbacks, two quarter-backs, and one goal-guard. Using a large rubber ball, the center box plays an important part in the passing from side to side to gain a goal.

At the close of the season tryouts were held by the fieldball head, Irmagene Sanford. She chose four senior, junior, and sophomore judges from G. A. A. who, alternating so that only three judges from two classes judged the other class, picked three representative teams, each member receiving twenty-five points, to compete in inter-class games. The seniors, captained by Bernita Schreiner, won the right to play the sophomores, headed by Mary Jane Sweeney, by defeating the juniors under Gayle Johnson in a close game by two goals to one. Taking the sophomores 4-1, the senior team emerged victorious.

Volleyball and Tumbling

THE winter semester in G. A. A. is opened by volleyball. Because volleyball is now classified as a co-educational game, boys' rules have been adopted at Central.

The tryouts were conducted and teams chosen just before Easter vacation under Ellen Rowley, volleyball head. Then competitive games were played. Sophomore, junior, and senior teams were captained by Mary Jane Sweeney, Dolores DuChaine, and Marian Senn respectively.

The girls may have tumbling in place of volleyball. Miss Ryan instructs them and at the close of the season, ten girls are chosen by a point system on ten stunts, forward roll, backward roll, head stand, elbow stand, hand stand, dive over one, dive over two, cartwheel, and two single stunts. They are judged by ten girls, members of the Executive Board including Orella Hartman, tumbling head, who automatically captains the team.

These girls were judged by Miss Helen Pointer of the Y. W. C. A. on regulation strokes, treading water, surface diving, one hundred yard free style swim, a standing dive, and one optional dive. They were captained by Jean Morris, who as swimming head on the Executive Board automatically headed the team.

Shortly after the team was picked, an individual point meet was held for the team members at the Y. W. C. A. Ribbons were awarded to Ruth Franklin who ranked first in swimming, to Hester Jewell and Jean Morris, who were tied for second place, and to Norma Rosness who placed first in diving. About 35 swimmers received free physical examinations. A play day was planned for those girls from each high school who made the greatest progress in their individual classes in which they received instruction.

The Spirit of Advancement

Many castles built in the air have become wonderful realities.

A man dreamed of a world that was round and America was discovered. A man watched a teakettle and brought us the power of steam. Another flew a kite and found electricity. Other men imagined machines which would sew, add, weave, travel, cut steel, talk, and the things they imagined came to life.

But from the minds of the inventors, the producers and the distributors there is an unbroken line of achievement only because the printer, who is the voice of today and the herald of tomorrow, brings the facts to the world.

The fall of Rome, the Norman Conquest, the signing of the Magna Charta, the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth, the French Revolution, and every important event in history, lives only in the printed word. And all too soon the records of this ANNUAL will live that way also, because of the PRINTER.

In Appreciation

The members of the staff of 1937 wish to express their gratitude to the "Times" for its hearty cooperation in the advertising space, announcements, write-ups, and feature stories given for the "Cehisean."

We wish to thank the class room teachers and the advisers who have given their time graciously for the improvement of the yearbook.

The business firms whose advertisements have appeared in this annual are supporting this school. Will you do the same by patronizing our advertisers?
